

Canada's Team Not Prepared

Bruce Humber, Back From Olympics, Would Make Canadians Competitors

By DENNY BOYD
Times Sports Writer

Bruce Humber, home from the 15th Olympiad at Helsinki, thinks Canada must decide whether she is a competitor or entered "just for the sake of sportsmanship" in the Olympic Games.

Victoria's Bruce, who coached Canada's track stars in Finland, arrived in Vancouver today.

"I'm proud of every member of our team," said Humber, "but under the present circumstances they simply were not prepared for the tremendous competition they ran into at Helsinki. It certainly was not their fault that Canada made the showing she did in point competition."

"First of all, we must decide right now whether we are going into the 1956 Olympics as a competitor, one which other nations will respect, or whether we are going to send a team just to have representation."

MUST BUILD
"Then we must start building. It is hopeless to wait until a few months before the games begin to whip a team into shape. We must start now and we must maintain interest in intervening years between Olympics."

"It is no secret that other major nations in the world have gone past Canada in track. The only way we can combat this is to follow the example of England and Finland."

"We must appoint a head coach for all of Canada and assistant coaches in each province to integrate a national track and field program. These coaches should be paid the year round."

Humber stated there was a dire need in Canada for more meets, greater track and field interest and more and better facilities.

He cited Finland as a model. "Finland has a population of 9,000,000 and they have 72,000 people who take an active part in track and field. It is their major sport and each tiny village has a track. In the entire Dominion we have no more than 5,000 people actively engaged in track work."

BROKE RECORDS
Humber said that the level of competition was "almost fantastic."

"Nearly every member of the track and field teams turned in the fastest times of his, or her career, yet in most cases the times did not qualify them for more than semi-final heats."

"A perfect example was a Dutch girl who broke the world's record in the women's hurdles but didn't even get out of the semi-final heat with her time. That's what Canada faced and that's what we will face in the future. Something must be done and done immediately."

"Is it any wonder that our kids did not qualify when in seven out of 12 running events the winning time in the 1948 Olympics would not have qualified for the finals?"

Humber asserted that he had never seen anything to equal the performances of Emil Zatopek, Czechoslovakian runner who won three gold medals in the 5,000 metres, 10,000 metres and marathon.

"He's not a man," said Humber. "He's a centaur—half man and half horse. He went into the marathon for the first time in his life, won it, and the only reason he didn't set a new record was that he didn't know how to run it properly."

BRUCE HUMBER
... wants competitors.

Of the international value of the games, Humber said that the true worth was to be found down on the field, where athletes met and formed friendships that were not distorted by nationality or political tendencies.

He warned that some nations use the games as a method of publicizing their strength almost as an export, but asserted that the Olympics would always be a destroyer of racial barriers as long as the spirit of sportsmanship that existed in Helsinki between the competitors prevailed over nationalism.

Humber lauded the Finnish people for their unflinching hospitality, stating that the host nation went out of its way to make the visiting athletes feel at home.

Of the Russians, Humber said they were at all times "correct." He said that the competitors themselves were friendly and courteous, never protested official decisions, were co-operative and ethical on the practice field, and expressed absolutely no emotions over victories or defeats.

New $1 Charge Will Be Extra On 1952 Bills

British Columbians who have already this year paid $35 hospital co-insurance under the old system will have to pay the new $1 a day under the new system if they enter hospital again this year.

This point was clarified today by Health and Welfare Minister Eric Martin.

He said, however, if this works a hardship in any case, it might be subject to adjustment.

The minister pointed out that the government had to pick somewhere to make a fresh start on the new system.

The old plan had a maximum payment annually of $35 for the whole family. The new system calls for payment at a $1 a day for each day each member of the family is in hospital.

SOCREDS PLAN TO FIGHT NEW FREIGHT RATES

Confirm Brazil Special Counsel

British Columbia's new Social Credit government will fight recent applications for freight rate increases with "utmost vigor," Attorney-General Robert Bonner said today.

He made the statement in announcing that Charles W. Brazier of Vancouver, B.C.'s special freight rates counsel for the last three years, will continue in that role for the new administration. Mr. Bonner will consult with Mr. Brazier on the problem later this week, and Mr. Brazier will attend a special "strategy meeting" of counsel of the four western provinces in Winnipeg Aug. 25.

On Tuesday, Mr. Brazier will meet the special freight rates advisory committee, composed of prominent B.C. industrialists, for preliminary discussions.

This government considers the freight rates problem of utmost importance to B.C., said Attorney-General Bonner. The railways have applied for an immediate 7% rate increase based on the alleged deficiency of revenue experienced under the last increase granted by the Board of Transport Commissioners.

They also are asking increases on domestic grain rates in Western Canada to bring them up to the Eastern rates.

Hearings on both these applications will be held in Ottawa Sept. 22, Mr. Bonner said.

An application to fix freight rates on a rate-of-return basis on the net railway investment of the C.P.R. is also being made.

Hearing on this application will be Nov. 10.

The railways application for a further 9% general rate increase, based on anticipated wage increases now being negotiated, will be heard Dec. 8.

It is estimated every 1% increase in rates costs B.C. $1,000,000.

Art Stolen

VANCOUVER, Aug. 11 (CP)—A painting worth more than $20 per square inch was stolen from the Vancouver Art Gallery during the week-end.

The $1,000 painting, "Port of Entry" by Othon Friesz, was loaned to the gallery by Adolph Ingre who came to Vancouver from England a short time ago. It was fully insured.

RANGOON BANDIT RETALIATES WHEN PRICE PUT ON HIS HEAD

RANGOON, Burma, Aug. 11 (AP)—A Karen rebel leader named Saw Seaplane, on whose head the government placed a reward of $2,500, has retaliated by posting on the Rangoon-Prome highway a poster offering:

- 25 cents for delivery of Premier U Nu to him.
- 25 cents for President Ba U.
- 50 cents for cabinet ministers or military policemen.
- $1 for ordinary soldiers.
- $2 for army officers.

Seaplane was reported killed in action recently, but showed up later in a skirmish with government forces.

Three Island Men in Group From Far East

One Victoria officer and two other Vancouver Islanders are among 328 Canadians arriving home Wednesday from the Korean battlefield.

This will be the last large leave contingent of men of the First Brigade due home on rotation this year.

Lieut. R. H. Murphy, 2675 Topp Avenue, of the Provost Corps, is the Victorian with the group. He is celebrating his 26th birthday today.

Gunner J. H. Stranack, of Honeymoon Bay, and Pte. E. R. Lapp, of Courtenay, are among the 17 British Columbians who dock in Seattle in the troopship Frederick Funston at 2 p.m. Wednesday.

BUS TO VANCOUVER

All B.C. men will come by bus to Vancouver and disperse, on leave, from that point.

A special leave train takes the remainder of the party to eastern points.

Lieut. Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Murphy, studied at Oak Bay High School and Victoria College before serving 18 months as a private. He then returned to University of British Columbia and was graduated in 1948 after majoring in psychology.

Joining the Provost Corps immediately following graduation, he served in various centres throughout Canada before beginning his Korean service 10 months ago.

Sick Jordan King Ousted In Favor of Son Hussein

ANTHONY EDEN TO WED PRIME MINISTER'S NIECE

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden is shortly to marry Clarissa Spencer-Churchill, niece of Prime Minister Churchill, it was officially announced today.

The handsome, moustachioed Eden is 55. His fiancée, daughter of the late Maj. John Spencer-Churchill and the late Lady Gwendoline Spencer-Churchill, is 32.

The marriage should be a photogenic one. Before the war Eden was voted the most handsome man in the world by users of an American beauty parlor chain, while Miss Spencer-Churchill, blonde with blue eyes, was hailed in 1938 as the most beautiful debutante of the year.

The two have known each other some years. During the war, Miss Spencer-Churchill worked in the foreign office decoding telegrams.

KING TALAL
... eased out.

Talal Gets Farouk Fate

AMMAN, Jordan, Aug. 11 (AP)—Parliament decided today to remove ailing King Talal from his ancient Hashemite throne and turn the crown over to his son, Crown Prince Hussein.

Jordan radio promptly broadcast that 17-year-old Hussein was proclaimed king.

The move came little more than two weeks after Egypt ousted King Farouk as ruler and proclaimed his infant son, Fud, as monarch.

Both houses of parliament had convened to hear reports about Talal's health. The government recommended that the monarch's brief reign be ended.

Talal has been reported mentally ill many months. The 41-year-old ruler recently underwent treatment in Switzerland for what has been reported as schizophrenia (split personality). He was under similar treatment in Switzerland in July, 1951, when the assassination of his father, King Abdullah, brought him to the throne.

Hussein, now a student in England, has been described as a likeable youth, noted for his sharp wit.

His crowning will fulfill a dream of his grandfather, Abdullah. Although Abdullah and Talal quarreled frequently, Hussein was a favorite with the tempestuous old man.

Hussein was only 15 when Abdullah made him a captain in his Arab Legion and began taking the boy with him on public appearances.

The influence of his mother, Queen Zeine, has played a strong part in Hussein's career. Since Talal became ill, she had pinned her hopes in the boy's becoming king. At one time she urged Abdullah to make Hussein next in line for the throne, thereby bypassing Talal.

There is nothing to indicate that Hussein will be more anti-British than his predecessors. Most of his education has been British.

Blast Factory

SEOUL, Aug. 11 (AP)—Allied fighter-bombers today turned a big North Korean chemical plant into a mass of flames in a concentrated attack with high explosives and fire bombs.

The Fifth Air Force said 150 planes heaped destruction on the chemical plant near Namsok, about 30 miles northwest of the battered east coast port of Wonsan.

BOAT WRECKAGE IS IDENTIFIED

Flotsam Found in Nootka Sound Bears Name of Ngai Brothers' Halibut Vessel

Wreckage of a boat discovered near Zeballos was positively identified today as that of the "Jack Point," missing since June 8 with two Victoria brothers aboard.

R.C.M.P. said no trace has been found of Roy Ngai, 32, of 128 Superior, and his brother, George, 34, of 933 Caledonia. They have been unreported since leaving Winter Harbor, north of Prince Rupert, bound for Victoria.

Identification of wreckage was made by R.C.M.P. and friends of the pair after it was found at Belmont Point, in Nootka Sound, said R.C.M.P. headquarters here. A portion of the boat with the name Jack Point was found by searchers.

SIGHTED SATURDAY
The wreckage was first sighted Saturday.

The brothers had been away since the middle of May on a halibut fishing trip.

They were members of a well-known Victoria family. Relatives here said they had not received word from them since they left in May, but that it was not unusual for the pair to be away for long periods while engaged in fishing northern waters.

"It is the desire of the government that peace be restored soon in the building trades," said Premier Bennett.

The joint announcement came after a survey of the education department by the new government—the first departmental survey to be completed, Premier Bennett said.

He said 75 projects in 58 school districts are affected by the "green light" from the government. This includes equipment purchases.

They are all projects which have been awaiting government approval. Half of the $5,000,000 cost of the new work is paid by the government.

Mrs. Rolston said every youngster will have a place to attend school this September.

None of the projects had been started. They had been approved locally, but not by the government.

Czech Refugee Says Hvasta Fled With Him

MUNICH, Aug. 11 (AP)—A Czech refugee said today John Hvasta escaped with him and four other prisoners last Jan. 2 from a Czech prison. Hvasta, an American, was serving a 10-year sentence as a spy.

The refugee's story supported an official Czech announcement of August 8 that Hvasta escaped January 2 and that his whereabouts since are unknown.

The story of the escape was told in an interview by Jaroslav Burec, 30.

Burec said "four prominent political prisoners" fled at the same time as himself and Hvasta, but he did not name them.

He identified the prison as one at Leopoldov, 30 miles northeast of Bratislava, where only prominent prisoners or those considered especially dangerous were held. By Burec's account:

The six fugitives slipped out unnoticed by guards, late in the afternoon. They parted into two groups of three at a river two miles away. Hvasta went one way, while Burec went another. They planned to meet again, but never were able to locate each other.

Hvasta, 25, of Hillside, N.J., was arrested by Czech secret police in October, 1948, and the following May was sentenced to three years in prison on charges of espionage.

After an appeal, a second trial in April, 1950, increased Hvasta's sentence to 10 years.

By-Elections Set Oct. 6

OTTAWA, Aug. 11 (CP)—Two Quebec federal by-elections will be held Oct. 6, it was disclosed today. Writs were issued today by-elections to fill Commons vacancies for the seats of Montreal-Outremont and Richelieu-Verchères.

SCRIBE LIKES IKE—ED TOO

Golfing Eisenhower Gives Famed Brother Even Chance of Victory

BY MONTE ROBERTS

Any caddy will tell you a man's golfing temperament is a sure indication of his character.

By this standard, I'd vote for Eisenhower, if I had a vote.

He's a man of confidence and serenity. He doesn't waggle his club or shift his feet on the tee; his backswing is firm and unhurried, and he hits the ball with crisp assurance.

He is a man of decision. He looks once at the lie of his ball, once at the pin, then calls for the club and makes the shot.

He is a keen student, a man who researches his facts and then sticks with them. He memorizes every roll of every green, and knows whether the grass grows from left to right or right to left.

He is a bold man, more apt to be over than short on his approach shots; and he is unharmed when a putt dies short of the hole.

He stands up to adversity well, and simply chews his gum a little more rapidly when a blade of grass robs him of a long birdie putt.

Yes, after walking a few holes with Eisenhower this morning, I'd vote for him without hesitation. But it's unlikely that I'll get the chance, as I have no U.S. vote, and anyway, Ed Eisenhower isn't a candidate for public office.

Ed is, in the opinion of Victoria golfing circles, the best known of the Eisenhower brothers. He's a Tacoma lawyer, who has played seven years.

He teed off this morning at Victoria Golf Club, in the qualifying round of the Senior Northwest Golfers' Association 30th annual tournament, and started off with a pair of earned pars.

Although much more interested in his game and his chances of taking the title ("I wish it were all medal—I'm not so good at match"), he was quite willing to talk about his brother Dwight's political chances—between shots, that is, and wisecracks to his partners.

"I don't give Dwight better than 50-50," he said, "it won't be a walkaway. Stevenson will be tough to beat."

Ed Eisenhower thinks Dwight's best chance lies in a thorough exploitation of the "graft and corruption" in the Democratic party.

"He'll have to prove to the people that a complete change in government is needed to wipe it out," he said. "A political party is like a family. If your brother did something wrong, you'd be less likely to punish him than if he were a complete stranger."

"That's why a new democratic president won't clean up the mess. A complete change is needed, from top to bottom."

Ed believes that Dwight will have to keep his eye on the ball, or go down five and four.

MILITARY DRAFT FAVORED

Allies' War Build-Up Faltering, Ridgway

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, ALLIED POWERS IN EUROPE, Aug. 11 (AP)—Gen. Matthew Ridgway said today the threat of war is still as great as ever and there is a serious weakness in the west's buildup to meet this threat.

The supreme commander of Allied forces in Europe told a press conference there is doubt whether the western Allies can reach their 1952 goal of 50 divisions and 4,000 planes.

Ridgway also said he favors two years' military service—something European countries are to discuss in Paris Tuesday.

There are indications the countries will not adopt it. Belgium has already been hit by strikes protesting her two-year draft term.

The most serious deficiency to date, Ridgway said, is the S.H.A.P.E. buildup in the logistics field. The problem of building warehouses, troop installations and airfields is broad and complex, he said, and "I haven't had time to go into the almost innumerable details of that program."

"There is no reliable evidence known to me," he said, that the threat of aggression against the west had diminished. In preparing the defense against such a threat, he said, there were "serious inadequacies in several vital categories," but all the S.H.A.P.E. organization is trying its best to meet these deficiencies.

PROTRACTED TREATMENT

Honolulu Hospital For Madam Chiang

HONOLULU, T.H., Aug. 11 (UP)—Madame Chiang Kai-shek made plans today to enter a hospital here for "protracted" treatment of a skin disorder.

The wife of the leader of China's Nationalists arrived here early Sunday by air from Formosa. Her face was slightly swollen presumably from the effects of the ailment which has affected her for the past 10 years.

She walked shakily down the stairs of a Philippine air line plane and asked to be taken from the airport immediately because she was "very tired and weak." She was given support by Col. Tsy Tonglao, Chinese consul-general in Honolulu, who drove her to the home of her sister, Madame H. H. Kung.

On hand to greet her were scores of persons from this Chinese-American community. Adm. Arthur W. Radford, commander-in-chief of the Pacific Area, was the first of several military men to greet Madame Chiang.

In a statement issued about an hour after her arrival, she said: "I have come here solely for reasons of my health. For the past year I have suffered from neurodermatitis. I hope to be able to enter a hospital as soon as it can be arranged. As soon as I regain my health I shall return to help continue the fight for the freedom of our people."

NEXT TO DORIS DUKE

She will stay at Kalkoo, one of Honolulu's most palatial homes which is next to Doris Duke's mansion in the Diamondhead area.

As yet, no decision has been reached as to which hospital she will enter, but Tripler Army Hospital has been recommended.

Physicians advised the trip on the theory that a change from Formosa's hot, humid climate might help the healing process.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek does not plan to join his wife here, according to K. W. Yu, adviser in charge of press relations for the Chinese Nationalist's United Nations delegation.

Reporters at the airport were not allowed to interview Madame Chiang. Police said they had received orders from the navy to keep all newsmen from approaching the plane on its arrival, although Rear Admiral Tom B. Hill, deputy commander in chief of the Pacific, later denied the navy had issued such an order.

Carl Eifler, customs officer in charge at Honolulu international airport, opposed the reporters' inquiry about the banning and said "any further argument and out you go—all the way out."

Two reporters pursued the point further and Eifler took up their custom passes which admitted them to the area.

He later offered to return both passes, but the reporters refused to accept them and demanded that Eifler return the credentials through their employers with an explanation of why they were confiscated.

Mother, Son Missing After Yakima Flood

YAKIMA, Wash., Aug. 11 (AP)—A mother and her small son were missing today in the wake of a freak summer storm and flash flood that made boiling rivers of two small creeks in the Wenas Valley 15 miles north of here. Four persons were injured.

Deputy Sheriff Gene Pomeroy said he was told a wall of water 50-75 feet high rolled down Wenas Creek, dislodging houses, uprooting trees and flooding low-lying farmland as a rain of near-torrential proportions poured down Wenas Valley, near Yakima Valley and from Wenatchee to Ellensburg.

The storm struck without warning late Sunday afternoon. Within minutes Wenas and Cottonwood Creeks, normally little more than ditches at this time of year, were raging torrents.

The rain flooded streets in Yakima and accompanying winds estimated from 50 to 65 miles an hour dropped trees and power lines. U.S. Highway 410, the main east-west route between Seattle and Spokane was blocked by five slides.

Missing were Mrs. Norman Winchell, 37, and her son, Floyd, 5, occupants of one of the seven houses uprooted and tossed into the flooding creeks.

Trans-Mountain Awards Contract

VANCOUVER, B.C., Aug. 11 (BUP)—The Trans-Mountain Pipe Line company today awarded a contract to a Winnipeg firm for the biggest river-crossing project of the company's Edmonton-to-Vancouver oil pipe line.

The firm, Missouri Valley Canadian, won the contract for the 2,250-foot crossing at Port Mann, B.C. Sum of the contract was not disclosed.

CIVIL DEFENSE BOOMS

14,000 in B.C. Training; More Nurses' Aides Needed

More than 14,000 British Columbians have received or are currently receiving civil defense training.

In announcing the figures, the provincial civil defense office also notes that more than 3,000 nurses throughout B.C. have received instruction in the nursing aspects of atomic, biological and chemical warfare, taught by 74 other nurses who took a special four-day course last year.

The Victoria civil defense office adds that a satisfactory response is continuing for registration of persons to train next month as nurses' aides, but more persons still can be accepted to fill the required quota of 200.

Greeks Shell Island

Cross mark shows where Greek Army shelled Gamma Island, seized by Communist Bulgaria in a raid July 23. The island always considered Greek territory, lies in the Evros River, which for 10 miles forms the frontier between Bulgaria and Greece. The Greek press said the bombardment was a prelude to re-occupation of the island.

Ultimatums, Bullets Fail to Move Bulgars

Red Satellites Still Occupying Gamma Islet As Entrenched Greeks Throw Few More Shots

By FRED J. M. ZUSY

DIKEA, Greece (on the Greek-Bulgarian border), Aug. 10 (AP)—Entrenched Greek soldiers threw a few more shots into Gamma Islet on the nervous Greek-Bulgarian frontier Saturday in a continued unsuccessful attempt to clear Bulgarian occupants off the 300-yard-long island.

Greek fire from mortars, machine-guns and automatic weapons has been directed intermittently at the island for three days now.

Successive 48-hour and 24-hour ultimatums from the Greeks failed to clear the Bulgars out. "A Greek official announcement Thursday said the Bulgars had withdrawn from Gamma after the Greeks had first opened fire. The Greek general staff said that no Greek troops had been sent to the island, since the only objective was to get the Bulgarians out, implying that the objective had been achieved then. Apparently some Bulgars stayed on Gamma or returned after leaving the island."

The Greeks have been careful to confine their firing to the disputed river island which they claim is Greek soil, and they are telling the Bulgars of this caution over loud-speakers mounted on jeeps.

Communist Bulgaria has no diplomatic relations with Greece, and Bulgar border officials have ignored Greek requests to talk the situation over, the Greeks said.

So the desultory firing might continue until the Greeks get tired of it or something else happens. Nobody is getting hurt, so far as is known, in the present shooting.

The Bulgars have apparently paid little attention to it since a single volley of machine-gun was loosed at the Greeks, the Greeks said, from the Bulgar north bank of the Evros River on the night of Aug. 7. The Greeks also started their shooting at that time.

Maj. John Sottrion, commander of the home guard in the Dikea area, said the Greeks had been grazing animals there 30 years and that the Bulgars were violating Greek sovereignty.

A CRY FOR HELP ON A CROWDED STREET

Romanian Pistol Champion Flees Iron Curtain

By MATS LUNDQUIST HELSINKI, Aug. 11 (UP)—A purposely forgotten knapsack and a cry for help on a crowded city street enabled a member of Romania's Olympic team to realize his hope for freedom from behind the Iron Curtain.

The story of how Panait Calcai fled Communism, revealed in an interview before he left Helsinki, could at last be told today, since he has found refuge in the Western World.

The member of Romania's pistol team said the Communist government had him tagged as "politically unreliable" before he left for the competition as Oslo and Helsinki.

"I was guarded every minute of the time by two members of the secret police," Calcai said. "It had a very bad effect on my pistol shooting to see those gentlemen around constantly and to know what they were there for."

Despite the unnerving presence of his guards, Calcai won sixth place in the Olympic silhouette shooting. And then he made his break, less than two hours before the Romanian team was scheduled to return to Bucharest.

"I purposely left my brown leather knapsack behind at the Otanemi camp when we went to the train," he explained. "When we arrived at the station, I 'discovered' the loss, and asked to go back to camp to pick it up. They saw I didn't have it, and they agreed. But, of course, they sent one of those agents along with me in a taxi."

I WANTED ONE, TOO

"I got the bag, and we started back. The idea flashed through my mind of jumping out of the car as we went through the wooded road near Otanemi. Then I thought it would be better if I made the break on some crowded street in downtown Helsinki."

"As we drove down Alexander Street in the heart of Helsinki, I was just about to ask the driver to stop in front of a shop so I could buy one of those Olympic souvenir ashtrays when the guard spoke up. He wanted to do the same thing. I told him I would go in with him, as I wanted to take one along."

"We went into the shop and made our purchase. When we returned to the street, I reached in for my knapsack—which contained my most important worldly possession, my tournament pistol which I had toiled myself—and then announced to him that I wasn't going back. I was staying."

"He got excited, grabbed me, and started pulling me into the car. I shouted for help to draw a crowd. Before I could do that, the police came and took us all away to the station. They decided there was no basis for any charge against me."

"Then a miracle happened. One of the bystanders who saw the scuffle followed us to the police station. I cannot say who he was, but he was a foreign visitor."

WAITING WITH TAXI "When I came out of the station, he was waiting with a taxi. I was desperate because I knew my secret police escort would be right behind me. I jumped into the taxi with him, and he took me to a private home."

STRIKE—In Hollywood all members of the Screen Writers' Guild and the Authors' League of America called a strike today against the Alliance of Television Film Producers.

The alliance comprises 13 member firms and the walkout may interrupt production of more than half of the filmed TV programs made in Hollywood.

Nine months of negotiations broke down more than a week ago when the alliance refused demands by the guild and the league.

TRIO—Three automobiles, all driven by members of the same family, were involved in an accident at Oneida, N.Y., Sunday.

Lewis Eaton, Sr., halted his automobile on a county highway near here. A car driven by his daughter, Bertha, crashed into the rear of Eaton's.

Minutes later a third car, driven by son Lewis Eaton, Jr., banged into the rear of Miss Eaton's automobile.

Eaton suffered chest injuries. The son and daughter were not hurt.

VISIT—In Saratoga Springs, N.Y., Prince Aly Khan says he expects to visit his estranged wife, actress Rita Hayworth, early next week.

The playboy prince said he would put 20 of his father's yearlings up for sale at Saratoga Springs Tuesday and return to New York on Thursday.

He said he hopes to leave for California within a few days after his arrival in New York. He refused to say whether he would seek a reconciliation or try to arrange for a divorce from Miss Hayworth.

APPOINTED—In Ottawa Allan Woodrow of Toronto, honorary treasurer of the National Liberal Federation of Canada, has been appointed its acting president on a temporary basis.

Lyall is reported to be suffering from crushed vertebrae, severe bruises and cuts. He was placed in a body cast Sunday and will remain in it for about three months.

Shock suffered by the ranger is wearing off well, the doctors reported.

DOLDRUMS—In Ottawa government officials looked to a two-month exhibit in New York today to help lift the Canadian textile and clothing industries out of the doldrums.

The exhibit opened Aug. 4 and will last through September.

G. R. Poley, chief of the trade department's textiles and leather section, said a clothing and footwear exhibit had been set up in Rockefeller Centre to arouse U.S. and other buyer interest in Canadian products. The exhibit should be a "primary step" in improving present "limited" export sales, he said.

Poley cited ignorance regarding Canadian production and stiff import controls as two factors in the low level of clothing and textile exports.

250 Workers Idle Through $1,000,000 Shingle Plant Fire

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Aug. 11 (BUP)—About 100 of the 350 employees of the Capilano Timber Co.'s fire-wrecked mill in New Westminster, B.C., were expected to start work Monday in the firm's mill at nearby Vancouver.

The 350 were thrown out of work early Saturday when a three-alarm, $1,000,000 blaze gutted the mill, one of the largest shingle plants in B.C. Company officials, pointing out the employees were left jobless only a week after the 45-day strike of coast woodworkers ended, said they would shift as much of their operations as possible to a Vancouver mill which would have closed after last week. But some 250 men had no further work ahead.

The firm had fallen behind in shingle orders to Britain as a result of the strike and would use the smaller mill to catch up.

New Westminster fire marshals continued to probe the cause of the fire, the worst in their city since 1939. They believed a short circuit or spontaneous combustion was to blame. They also wanted to find out why water pressure was low in the area at the time.

NOTHING TO DISCUSS'

Korean Truce Talks Seen On 'Deathbed'

By SAM SUMMERLIN
MUNSAN, Korea, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Korean truce talks may be on their deathbed.

They show symptoms of dying a distressing death—on the doorstep to success.

After one year of negotiating, war-prisoner exchange is the only issue blocking the path to peace. But there seems to be no solution to this question which can satisfy both parties.

United Nations and Communist delegates have met only twice in two weeks. They have talked 84 minutes in the last 17 days.

North Korean Gen. Il, chief Red delegate, demands the U.N. return 116,000 prisoners in U.N. stockades. He says this number must include the 20,000 Chinese soldiers in captivity.

But Harrison says, "No." The U.N. command offers to return 83,000 men, including 6,400 Chinese. The rest have renounced communism.

In July, delegates wrestled with the controversy for 18 secret sessions. But the Reds refused to accept the 83,000 offer. Secrecy was ended July 26. Harrison angrily walked out of the tent and Nam Il protested loudly.

The talks have been in one recess after another since then, except for minor staff sessions.

The reluctant Chinese prisoners undoubtedly are the enemy's main concern.

The Communists don't want to let Red China's former soldiers stay south. Nam Il has told Harrison that no armistice can be achieved unless all Chinese prisoners are sent across the line.

The only visible note of encouragement for an armistice is the fact the delegations are still meeting—at least once a week. Both sides naturally would be reluctant to get the blame for ending the talks.

Of Canada's total output by clothing industries in 1950, Quebec accounted for 56 per cent.

U.S. Carrier Docks With Burned Planes and Deckload of Heroes

By JIM BECKER

YOKOSUKA, Japan, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Boxer steamed into this Japanese naval base today with 12 burned planes and a deckload of heroes.

Nine dead and scores of injured had already been evacuated by air from the United States aircraft carrier.

That most dreaded of sea disasters, fire, broke out on the carrier Wednesday as the ship prepared to launch jet planes against Communist North Korea.

Steel plates of the hangar deck—where the planes are parked—were buckled by the heat of the fire; 12 aircraft were destroyed.

Stories were told today of incredible heroism among the crew. No one knows how the fire started. But when it started, the crew did fantastic things as the blaze ignited machine gun and rocket ammunition and set off a big bomb. Hot lead poured between the decks.

It was a peaceful morning aboard the Boxer that Wednesday. Night planes had just landed and day strikers were about to take off.

Suddenly the fire broke out in the gas tanks of one of the planes; it spread to other aircraft.

Said sailor E. O. Hawley: "The smoke was so thick I had to get down on my hands and knees to crawl forward. I saw a whole bunch of bombs on the deck. I threw them overboard. Then I came across a man who had been overcome by smoke. I found a life jacket for him. By that time the heat was so intense and coming toward me I had to jump overboard."

A tattooed young sailor dashed into the area and dragged out six men who had been overcome by smoke. Volunteers moved into the narrow passageways and hauled other men out. Some were dead.

The ship's chaplain spent more than an hour manning a fire hose.

An hour and a half after it started, the main blaze was out and the ship had been saved. 64 men jumped overboard, and all but one was rescued by destroyers accompanying the Boxer.

All the fires were out within two hours. The Boxer headed back to Japan.

Trouble in N.A.T.O.

THE AFFAIRS OF THE NORTH ATLANTIC Treaty Organization are going badly.

A few months ago the partners of the grand alliance against aggression met in Lisbon and laid down certain schedules of rearmament. These plans were considered an absolute minimum necessary for the safety of the free world. They did not promise enough strength to repel Russian aggression immediately. They proposed only that over a period of some three to five years the free world should make itself strong enough to withstand an attack in Europe and, if possible, strong enough to discourage such an attack.

Already these minimum plans seem to be falling down.

The United States, the leader of the coalition, has stretched out its armament program and it has been further delayed by the recent steel strike. The Republican party apparently is ready; if elected in November, to cut down the military budget and General Eisenhower, in an unguarded moment, has even talked of a fifty per cent reduction in total government spending, which would obviously mean the destruction of the present defense plan altogether.

Britain has been compelled, understandably enough in its circumstances, to reduce and postpone military appropriations.

Now it is reported in Ottawa that the Canadian government intends to do the same thing in its next budget—in order to reduce taxes before an election.

All this must be regarded as good news in Moscow. The Politburo has always operated on the assumption that the democracies could not or would not sustain a steady pace of rearmament, that all their defense efforts would fall to pieces before they could succeed. Reading the reports from the various capitals of N.A.T.O., the Politburo must believe that its expectations are being confirmed. The entire project laid down at Lisbon evidently is in danger.

If it could be said that the international situation had changed, that Russia had abandoned all thought of aggression, that peace was assured, there would be good reason for changing the Lisbon schedules. But who can say that? On the contrary, we are being constantly told by the governments of the United States, Britain and Canada that the international situation has not improved, that the risks of war are still grave, that basic Russian strategy has not changed in the least, even if temporary tactics vary from time to time. And in the cardinal test of Korea the communists are still refusing to make a settlement and are building up strength behind the truce talks. There is no reason in international politics for any easing in the pace of rearmament. In the case of some European nations, especially Britain, there undoubtedly are economic reasons for an easier pace. Britain simply cannot afford the present diversion of energy out of civilian into military production. But this is not true of the United States and Canada. We are not poor in America. We have suffered no decline in our standard of living. We are living better than ever, our total production is at an all-time high and still growing. Unlike Britain and Europe, we are feeling no pain.

If, therefore, the United States and Canada intend to cut down their defense programs the reasons will not be military or economic. They will be political. The governments of America will be acting to satisfy the electors and win votes.

The real question thus is whether the people of America—who are never tired of urging Britain on to further austerity—are even ready to support defense measures which they can well afford without any austerity at all. We believe the people will support those minimum measures if they are given the facts candidly, if governments are willing to tell them the truth.

The people are confused by conflicting statements from the politicians, by high taxes, by charges of waste in the armed services and, in Canada, by a surplus in the government's budget and by the Conservative party's continual attack on "over-taxation" at a time when we need a surplus to reduce our swollen debt.

Russia knows how to exploit this confusion by peaceful gestures while it speeds up its own rearmament. Our own politicians of all parties know how to win votes by promising an easier life to the public.

But either the Lisbon decisions were right or they were wrong. They should be maintained or abandoned for good cause. No good cause for abandonment has appeared. No statesman has ventured to argue that the Lisbon schedule was excessive when obviously it was the very least that the democracies could risk. No one can say that America's share in these burdens is too heavy to be borne when America is enjoying the largest prosperity on record.

Mr. Truman's Tariff

THE TARIFF POLICIES OF GREAT states are an essential part of their foreign policy. For if their interferences with trade damage their friends and allies the political and military aspects of foreign policy must fail. The defense of the free world will certainly fail unless its rests on a sound economic foundation, unless the members of the western coalition all have the chance of prosperity. Without abundant trade there will be no such chance.

With these facts in mind President Truman is attempting to lift the tariff policy of the United States out of partisan politics. He has appointed a bipartisan group of leading Democrats and Republicans to survey the whole field of foreign trade and in particular to consider "an increasing body of restrictive laws" in the United States that may be working "at cross purposes with the basic objectives of the Mutual Security Program."

This is the President's answer to those protectionist forces in Congress which have been whittling down the Geneva trade agreement system and restricting the sale of foreign products in the United States. Mr. Truman evidently wishes to demonstrate to the nation, on the testimony of his bipartisan inquiry, that such policies will prove disastrous not only to foreign nations but to the United States itself.

The attempt to dam up trade, Mr. Truman rightly says, "poses a very real dilemma for our whole foreign policy." Clearly if that policy offers military aid to foreign nations while at the same time denying them the opportunity to trade and prosper it cannot succeed. Mr. Truman observes that the United States has constantly urged foreign nations to increase trade among themselves.

has tried to limit their trade with the Russian empire. "Having insisted that these countries severely restrict their trade in one direction what can we suggest to replace it?" Mr. Truman asks.

Obviously what the world needs is a larger United States market where it can earn dollars to buy the North American goods it requires.

Yet, says the President, "We find growing up in this country an increasing body of restrictive laws attempting to further the interests of particular American producers by cutting down the imports of various foreign goods which can offer competition in American markets." He cites as an example the dairy restrictions which, contrary to the Geneva agreement, have restricted imports vital to the European exporters and important also to Canada.

The President's own position in this issue has always been clear and courageous. He has vainly attempted to dissuade Congress from such aberrations as the dairy restrictions. Within the powers granted to him by the reciprocal trade agreements legislation he has reduced American tariffs to their lowest point in modern times.

But he is alarmed by the growing protectionist strength in Congress and intends, through the report of an independent inquiry, to show where this sort of policy must eventually lead. In the end, Congress, not the President, must make the tariff laws and the policy of the new Congress, to be elected in November, cannot be foreseen. If the Republicans win the election General Eisenhower, in the Presidency, will face the problem now disturbing Mr. Truman and, against a Republican Congress, may face it in more acute form.

A Falling Market

THE BACKGROUND OF THE RECENT British Columbia timber strike is filled in by the monthly review of the Bank of Nova Scotia, an impartial observer. The facts mentioned by the banks are not so well known as they should be and probably will be later on.

"Quite apart from the strike," the bank says, "the outlook for the lumber industry is clouded by the expectation that the scale of British purchases will be sharply reduced when the existing contracts are completed in the autumn."

"The expected loss of British orders will be a serious blow. Since early last year when Britain returned to her traditional position as one of the largest markets for B.C. lumber, British orders have pretty well offset the decline in U.S. demand. Though housing starts have picked up in the United States and show some signs of strengthening in Canada, there is little or no prospect of an improvement in these markets sufficient to compensate for the expected drop in British buying. Moreover the U.S. market is highly competitive and the position of Canadian mills has been weakened by the rise in the value of the Canadian dollar."

Such market prospects do not suggest that the lumber industry can afford to raise its costs and damage its competitive position. Its costs may well be too high now for the kind of market which seems to confront it in the near future.

A Stiff Upper Lip at New Delhi

THE WAYS OF THE EAST ARE DIFFICULT for a westerner to fathom, despite the ever-improving community of life on this shrinking globe.

Occidentals can understand, for instance, the riots of prisoners in North American jails when food complaints or boredom are the causes. But what is to be made of the report from New Delhi, where 60 prisoners went on a hunger strike because authorities had forcibly cut off their mustaches?

It seems the prisoners had been in the habit of directing verbal abuse at the guards and wardens. Such attacks the officials could have endured, apparently, were it not for the fact that the prisoners persisted in "arrogantly twisting their mustaches" while voicing the insults.

There was only one solution—remove the offending hirsute props. The prison authorities have thus saved face—that all-important commodity in the east—at the expense of the prisoners, who have lost at least part of theirs. There will be no more arrogant twisting for at least a month or two.

Only one possible flaw remains. Removal of the mustache may have disclosed a sneer beneath, a much more difficult arrogance to eradicate.

BOB RUARK SAYS

Tough Old-Timer Took It Neat

NEW YORK—The last time I saw old Andrew Higgins he drank the best part of a quart of bonded bourbon out of a huge old-fashioned glass and never blinked. He had numerous bodyguards and sons whipping around at his beck and whistle. He was telling me a lot of tall tales about how he supplied an integral piece of machinery for the first atom bomb, and drawing the bow pretty long.

This happened about six years ago outside of New Orleans, in the big Higgins plant where old Andy was in the process of whipping up some pre-fab houses of nice ice-cream colors and what seemed alarmingly simple manufacture. Whatever happened to his housing project I couldn't say. Possibly not much.

ANDREW JACKSON HIGGINS got famous for building landing craft during the recent war to end war, and as time passed the appellation "Higgins boat" became as much of the fighting vocabulary as "jeep." Some of his boats were not so capable at first, and got their bottoms ripped off. He improved as the war continued. But Andrew J. always built them fast, even if some were semi-functional. He did everything fast.

HE WAS a fabulous old boy, Andrew J. was. He went bust a couple of times, and somehow bounced back. He was the greatest free-style cuss I ever met, and he cusses mostly in falsetto. His normal voice was a booming base, but when he was really feeling contemptuous he would adopt sissy mannerisms and squeak his bad words in a mincing tone that was double emphatic. He would cuss a bit in soprano and then holler fit to bust the chandeliers in his regular basso and then lapse back into his mincing act. It was highly disconcerting.

OLD Andrew was surrounded by a gross or so of sons, most of whom he was mad at all the time. The day I visited him he was feuding with one of his eldest boys. He took a quarter-pint belt out of the bourbon jug and started to cuss.

"I'm waitin' for one of my blank boys to come back and apologize to me for me being so rude to him," said Andrew J. "Blank and blast and unprint, but I really gave that blank boy blank. What I give him blank for was not having a blueprint ready for me when I said so and we had a helluva fight. He's a good boy. Plenty smart, but no such-and-so kid of mine is going to give the old man that kind of back talk."

MR. HIGGINS dismissed his erring spawn and proceeded to trade unions. He was the man who once liquidated all his enterprises in order to hotfoot the local A.F.L. union. Andrew J. started afresh and gave his business to the C.I.O. just to see his arch-enemies boil. He claimed he withstood 52 unauthorized strikes during the war, and was something more than libelous when he touched the subject. You could see the blisters raising on the paintwork.

ANDREW J. had a talent for trouble. He violated national law once by backing the State Department in the Argentina elections, back when Juan Peron was just beginning to come to full power. Andrew J. said he wasn't going to do any pussyfooting around. He wanted to do business with Argentina, and said so out loud, a sin for which he was clobbered over the head.

"How the ding-dong are you going to do business with people that hate you?" he exploded. "We spend all this slambang money to make friends with these South Americans, and then we do our best to make 'em hate us. Lotta idiots playing foreign policy."

IN MY misspent youth I have observed competent tipping on quite a few fronts, but I never saw a man with quite the command of Andrew J. While I was nibbling at two mild slugs of Old Ancient Something, Andrew J. destroyed the remnants of the quart. He drank it neat, with back-tossed head and a single smooth rippling motion of his throat. It didn't seem to faze him any. His face was red when he started.

I don't know whether he was a good man or a bad man or how much mark he left on the world. But he was a tough old boy and all male-man and there aren't too many of his like left. I hope there's bourbon where he's stationed, and boats or something for his restless brain and heavy hands to build.

No Pepys He

Montreal Star

Major-General Robert Grow will probably go down in history as a famous diarist. Not comparable, certainly, to Greville, Grevelly, Pepys or Evelyn as a chronicler of scandal in the contemporary scene, but fully as indiscreet as these.

Indiscretion is the hallmark of the good diarist and Grow is well branded in this respect. It was he who while in the United States army in Frankfurt put down his juvenile comment on current events and allowed it to fall into Russian hands.

Anywhere else, Grow's indiscretions would have done no more than raise a hearty laugh and evoke a wonder how he ever got through staff courses with the kind of intelligence displayed in his writing. For Russia, however, the diary was a godsend, proof positive that the United States was warmongering.

Grow's fervid cry to his diary "War! as soon as possible. Now!" is comparable to the dreams confided by the adolescent girl to her diary. They are personal wish fulfillments and not necessarily statements of absolute truth. Grow seems to have dreamed of death and glory.

He has been court-martialed and mildly punished. Perhaps the reprimand fits the crime. For Grow was guilty more of stupidity than of malice.

A Deaf Ear to Phone Calls

"FRANK? This is Joe. Say, listen. My kid's just had a bad accident and needs a transfusion. They won't take any more from me. Will you give her some blood?"

"Gee, I'm sorry Joe. I'm going to a movie tonight and if I don't get right home after work it makes such a rush. Sorry, but you better count me out."

"Mrs. Taylor? This is Mrs. Jones. Oh, Mrs. Taylor, Albert's been hurt at the mill. I know we haven't been neighbors long but you have the same type of blood as his. Won't you please give a transfusion for him? They say it's very serious."

"Why, Mrs. Jones, I'm terribly sorry to hear that. I won't be able to give me some blood but there isn't any of my kind in the bank. The nurse said it's too bad you didn't come in last week, 'cause there isn't time now. Say goodbye."

"Daddy? This is Jimmy. Daddy, I just got hit by a car. They want to give me some blood but there isn't any of my kind in the bank. The nurse said it's too bad you didn't come in last week, 'cause there isn't time now. Say goodbye."

Telephone conversations? No, not really. For Heaven's sake, you might ask, what kind of people live in that town? What do they use for hearts, much less blood? But those conversations haven't taken place, in actual words. The people who'd give answers like that don't exist.

Telephone conversations? Yes, in a way. They're the unspoken conversations that take place when you read that the local blood bank is low and don't do anything about it. They're the mental conversations that whisper in the background when you decide to skip your blood bank visit this time and perhaps go next month. They're the tragic talks that could lie behind any appeal for blood that goes unanswered.

Telephone conversations? They could be. You can't imagine yourself on the selfish end of the line. But how do you know you won't be on the other end? You, the applier, begging for the life-giving fluid you haven't bothered to provide for others.

They can always get it when they need it, you say? The Red Cross urgently needed three pints a few nights ago. They made 93 phone calls before they could obtain them. The calls weren't all refusals, although a dismaying number of them were. They were mostly no-answer calls. Nobody was home. Nobody heard them. The people might have been willing but they weren't around.

Victoria's blood bank right now is dangerously low. It's so low we have to borrow from Vancouver, also in critical shape. It's so low there's no surplus to send to our men in Korea.

Lots of folks can't spare a dollar for a worthy cause. That's understandable. But everybody can spare a pint of blood. Spare yours next Wednesday or Thursday at Red Cross House, on Fort Street.

Who knows, maybe you'll get it back within 24 hours.

Frank? This is Joe. . . . This is Mrs. Jones. . . . This is Jimmy. . . . This is humanity. . . . —B. A. T.

As Our Readers See It

BUILDING COSTS

It is, to say the least, unfortunate that Victoria carpenters are refusing to accept an increase of 15 cents per hour to $1.90 rate. Loss of work and construction is crippling industry.

I have obtained figures from Victoria Building Industries Exchange on wages paid throughout Canada to carpenters. Recent increases have been negotiated in eleven Canadian cities as follows:

	Increase	New Rate
Halifax	15c	$1.48
Moncton	10c	1.40
Montreal	15c	1.70
Ottawa	5c	1.65
Toronto	10c	2.10
Windsor	10c	2.00
Sarnia	8c	1.88
Winnipeg	15c	1.80
Regina	17c	1.75
Saskatoon	25c	1.80
Calgary	15c	1.85

It would seem that our unions are suffering from unreasonable and bad leadership as the contractors' offer would appear fair and reasonable by comparison.

Montreal has the highest cost of living in Canada, see above. The Victoria carpenter enjoys almost full working time due to favorable weather whereas other cities do not.

Goodness knows, the cost of building a home is far beyond the means of the average unless the citizen is able to do his own building, even then the total cost is almost prohibitive.

Where is it all going to end? It would seem that, generally speaking, union affairs are in the hands of those who would wreck our economy.

Striking carpenters have lost at least $500 each in this strike so far. It's quite easy to "kill the goose that lays the eggs."

ENJOYABLE EXPERIENCE

Aged fifty, I have made 14 blood donations to the Red Cross during the past nine years. Nothing to crow about; it has done me good, morally and physically.

Like I did, I am sure many people dread the first time, but the proof that there's nothing to it lies in the number of repeaters—some up to 50 or 60 times, I believe.

The Red Cross now have it down so pat that several times I have not realized that blood was being withdrawn.

Those who have not tried it will discover an enjoyable experience—and it costs nothing.

Tensions

Exchange

Though Canada fared ill at the Olympic games, and Britain, which once taught sports to the world, also made a poor showing, there is much satisfaction that the Helsinki games appear not to have made east-west tensions worse. There were no more protests than usual, the athletes seem to have got on well together, regardless of the clash of ideologies.

Helsinki at least made things no worse, a tribute to the courteous Finns who handled their hot assignment as hosts with aplomb and charm.

New Angle

From the Kremlin

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

A REPORT of a hitherto unpublished interview with Russian dictator Joseph Stalin is receiving powerful and puzzled attention in Washington and other Western capitals. The interview was granted by Stalin to Pietro Nenni, the Italian Socialist leader, who has just returned from a month's stay in the Soviet Union.

Nenni, who went to Russia to receive a Soviet "peace prize," is universally regarded as a captive of the Italian Communist party, and thus of the Kremlin. On his return to Rome, he made no public report of his conversation with Stalin, confining himself instead to the expected pro-Soviet propaganda.

But immediately after he talked to Stalin, he went to the Italian Embassy in Moscow and described to Italian Ambassador, Mario di Stefano, the substance of what Stalin said. Nenni's report is accepted as accurate as far as it goes. Stalin started the conversation by saying the expected things about the Soviet "will to peace." This formally over, he questioned Nenni at length, displaying a surprising grasp of the details of Italian politics, about the crucial Italian election next spring. Stalin then began to talk about Germany, and it is this portion of the interview which is considered particularly interesting.

Stalin noted that the Bonn agreement had been approved by the United States Senate. He predicted as "very probable" the election as President of Gen. Eisenhower. He remarked that, for these reasons, he considered any further diplomatic exchanges on the subject of Germany with the Western bloc as no more than a "propagandistic and marginal expedient"—in other words without real meaning. And he said he had further considered that it had become impossible to prevent the division of Germany into two parts on a permanent basis.

Therefore, Stalin told Nenni, it was necessary to substitute another formula for the "formula of a united and neutral Germany." This new formula called for the creation of two entirely separate Germanies, which would be, he said, "milli-tary and ideological counterweights to each other." In this situation, the "independence and security" of Eastern Germany must be "reinforced."

Stalin then reverted to the theme of the Soviet Union's "will to peace," and on this note the interview ended, without reference to Korea or other problems. Nenni reported that Stalin seemed in excellent health and spirits, and "calm and confident" throughout the interview. Stalin's attitude, Nenni implied, was that of a man who certainly has no intention of making war, but who is in no hurry either to make unnecessary concessions to the Western bloc.

It is obviously dangerous to interpret the episode on its face value. Yet it is at least true that Stalin's statements on Germany seem to support the views of the more optimistic of two schools of thought which have long existed in the American government.

One group of specialists has held that the Soviets would ultimately be willing to go to war if necessary to prevent the rearmament of West Germany in alliance with the West. Another group has held that the Soviets in this situation would react simply by heavily rearming East Germany and isolating the Eastern zone absolutely from contact with the West—and this, in effect, is what Stalin said to Nenni.

But it must also be said that Stalin has every reason for appearing "calm and confident," in view of what threatens in Asia, the Middle East, and within the Western alliance itself.

Ups and Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"HOW REAL," said the Elevator Man, "can you seem without actually being real? It's pretty hard, these days, to be sure that what you're looking at is actually what you think it is. Take that item from London, for instance. A woman S.P.C.A. worker rushed out to investigate a report of cruelty to an octopus in a tank at Battersea Pleasure Gardens. The octopus seemed all right. It glowed with health and moved its tentacles around under the water. 'How do you feed it?' she asked the keeper. 'We don't,' he said. 'It's made of plastic.' That's progress for you. The mountain of chemical science has labored and brought forth a plastic octopus. There can be little more for us to do. Going down!

"All the same," said the Elevator Man, "it doesn't take a scientist to achieve such miracles. Take a look around you on any bus or on the street. There's enough hokey-pokey going on all the time to make any plastic octopus green with envy. Notice some of the ladies' faces—beautiful pink complexions, beautiful big eyes, hair of various attractive shades, including blue. Don't think those doll-like cheeks are real. And some of those figures aren't all they seem, either. Then there's the clothes—hats designed to make gals look short or tall, dresses cut to look plump or slim regardless of what's underneath, shoes cut to make even small feet look smaller. Curls cover big ears, bangs cover knobby foreheads, tresses cover skinny necks. Many an unsuspecting fella who would never be taken in by the scientists' plastic octopus doesn't stand a chance with these amateurs. Watch your step!

"But," said the Elevator Man, "men are guilty, too. Look at that little shrimp with shoulders padded out to make him look like Joe Louis. Look at that fella with the sedate manner and the big frown. Checking over Einstein's latest? Hah! He's just wondering what's happened to Dick Tracy. We're all guilty, phony in our way. But we probably wouldn't be any happier even if we were real."

Oil Price Cuts Show Pipeline Benefits

By BURKE CAHILL, Times Business Editor. The benefits of the big interprovincial pipeline are now being felt by Canadian users of petroleum with price reductions on gasoline and light fuel oils announced today by Imperial Oil Company.

Wholesale prices on gasoline to dealers and also prices of light fuel oils have been cut from one-fifth to two-fifths of a gallon, the company has announced. Officials said the price reductions reflected net savings in transportation costs made possible by the agreed charges on freight rates offered by the railways and approved by the board of transport commissioners.

The cut in freight rates to the oil companies was offered by the railways in return for a guarantee that an agreed volume of oil transport business would remain with the railway companies.

Nevertheless, it was obvious to the railroads that the oil men would boost their use of the cheaper transportation afforded by the interprovincial pipeline unless the freight rates were cut.

Interprovincial Pipeline Company completed its first full year of operation in 1951. Expansion and addition of pumping stations has been pushed steadily throughout 1952. Throughout the open navigation season in 1951, the average pumping rate of the line at Edmonton was held at 104,000 barrels a day.

The first full operating year of Interprovincial was also an encouraging financial success. Total income for the year came to $14,456,195, according to the annual report, and after payment of all expenses and taxes there remained a net income of $3,352,706.

The facilities provided by Interprovincial and its wholly-owned subsidiary, Lakehead Pipeline Company Inc., were large factors in achieving the expected result of boosting crude output in Alberta.

During 1950 the Alberta oil fields produced 27,150,000 barrels of crude but in 1951, when the line provided an eastern outlet and added to the crude market, production was up 69 per cent to 45,900,000 barrels.

Details of changes to the Provincial Corporation Income Tax Act with special regard to oil and gas wells and mines have been published by the provincial government.

The revisions allow a taxpayer operating an oil or gas well 33 1/3 per cent deduction of profits "reasonably attributable to the production of oil or gas from the well." And a person having an interest in the proceeds of such a well, while not being the operator, can claim 25 per cent deduction, the revisions stated.

Operators and persons having interests in base-metal or precious metal mines in the province, certified by the finance minister as being a non-bedded deposit, were also allowed one-third and one-quarter deductions respectively, similar to the oil and gas well deductions.

The Galloway Lumber Co. Ltd. has applied for a forest management license for an area in the Kootenay district, along Galbraith and Tanglefoot Creeks.

Manitoba Oil Field Reserves Estimated Large, High Grade

WINNIPEG, Aug. 11 (CP)—An oil field eight miles west of Virden, Man., is believed to have a recoverable potential of at least 10,000,000 barrels of high grade crude just waiting to be tapped.

The estimate, first given by an oil company official, may have to be revised radically upward if the known size of the field continues to expand.

Mr. Ower said he thought the field "could eventually reach the size of a township—six square miles—and with this large area, it usually turns out to be an even larger field, much more than 10,000,000 barrels."

Oilmen class fields in three groups. An average field contains known recoverable reserves of more than 1,000,000 barrels. A large field contains upwards of 10,000,000 barrels, and a major field contains 100,000,000 barrels and up.

Slo-Mo-Shun IV Again Cops Coveted Gold Cup

By DON INGHAM
SEATTLE — Slo-Mo-Shun IV, holder of the world's speed record and 1950 Gold Cup champion, is the 1952 champ and her owner, Stanley S. Sayres of Seattle, is once again Seattle's "man of the year."

At the three-heat classic on Lake Washington, Saturday, the older sister of Sayres' deadly speedsters—Slo-Mo IV and V—came back to win after hard luck forced both boats out of the first heat.

Lou Fagool, who drove the "Five" to victory last year, dropped out of first place and the race when debris blocked his clocking system and cracked one of the hull's Allison motor.

Slo-Mo IV, driven by Stanley Dollar, was forced out when his racer lost a propeller. Hard work by Sayres and his pit crew between heats brought the IV back to the race with her sister's propeller, and the hard-driving Dollar was never again in danger.

BLAZING FINISH

The 18-hole struggle starts at 3 p.m. (EDT) with a $25,000 prize going to the winner — biggest payoff in tournament golf—and time loser collecting $12,500.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver had a four-round total of 292-69-76-74-73. Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon withdrew after putting together rounds of 75-81-75.

Middlecoff, the 31-year-old Memphis star who has been playing as a pro for five years, tops this season's money winners with $15,239. With the game's richest award at stake today he banged a sensational closing round of 61.

His 31-33 effort over the par 36-36 — 72 lay was only one stroke off the course record and equaled the best single tournament round ever shot by the exponent.

Three players—Dave Douglas, Jack Burke and Ed Furgol, who shared ledger loot—complained that Middlecoff slowed up proceedings 45 minutes to accommodate televising of the finish.

The trio protested that the delay, ordered by meet sponsors, cooled off their games as they stood around leaning on their clubs.

They claimed that Middlecoff, plus Chick Harbert and Bill Ogden in the same threesome, should have been penalized two strokes under game rules for delaying play.

But both meet and P.G.A. officials said the slow-up was the privilege of the sponsor and besides, the Middlecoff threesome finished in four hours when four and a half hours was the scheduled playing time per threesome.

The fidgety Middlecoff, who threatened to quit tournament play last year when he was plagued by hay fever and blew up in several events, finished an hour ahead of Boros.

Pressure Golf
This put the full pressure on the 32-year-old Mid Pines, N.Y., star who has been playing as a pro only three years and rose from obscurity to win the cherished U.S. open title.

Boros was up to the occasion, however, and smashed a 32-35 for 67. He missed a rolling 18-foot putt for a winning birdie on the last hole.

Middlecoff entered the final round with a 54-hole total of 212, nine strokes off the pace set by Lou Worsham. Boros went to work in the final with a 209.

Worsham Blows
Worsham, after a 203 for 54 holes, suffered one of the greatest blowups in golf. Out in 35, he still had a good lead over his closest rivals at the 63-hole juncture — a two-stroke edge over Roberto de Vicenzo, the Argentine champion; three over Boros, four over Jim Ferrier and seven over Middlecoff.

Worsham, the 1947 U.S. open king, then soared five over par on the 14th and 15th holes with a six and an eight. On each, he hooked his drives out of bounds.

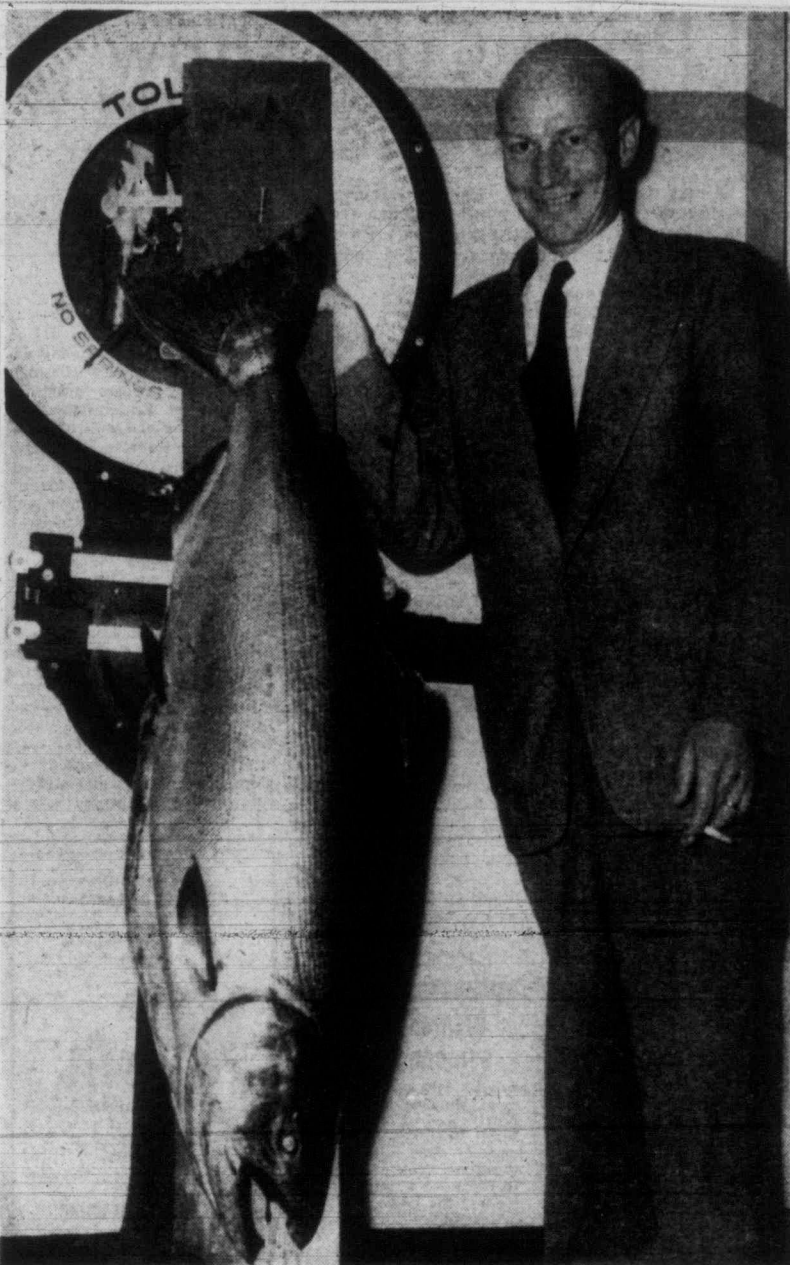

Winnipeg Gridders Trip Rough Riders
OTTAWA, Aug. 11 (CP). — Coach Clem Crowe of the Ottawa Rough Riders gave full credit to Winnipeg Blue Bombers after the visitors' 24-6 victory Saturday night in the exhibition opener of the football season here.

Most dangerous threat to the Seattle champions was Miss Pepsi, owned by the Dossin brothers of Detroit and driven by Chuck Thompson.

Thompson piloted his five-ton, 3,000-horsepower craft to a new course record in the first heat of 101 miles per hour average for the 30-mile course, and was forcing Dollar and the Slo-Mo IV to the utmost in the second heat before gearbox trouble put him out of the race for good.

Latest word from Seattle was that Bill Cantrell, badly burned on the face and arms when such Crust IV exploded and burned in the second heat, was recovering nicely.

Other two boats in the race were Hurricane, owned and driven by Morlan Visel of Los Angeles, that dropped a propeller in the third heat, and Miss Great Lakes, a newcomer to Gold Cup racing, that quit in the first heat with gear trouble.

His Wife Wanted to Throw It Back

Call it a "once in a lifetime thrill." Jim James, Empress Hotel valet, said Sunday after boating this 49-pound spring off Christmas Point in Saanich Inlet, Anglers' secretary, George Douglas, said to his knowledge it was largest fish caught in five years. James was using Martin plug and 450 feet of nylon line with planer. My wife was scared," said James, who has been fishing the inlet every Sunday and Wednesday for 10 years. "She wanted to throw it back."

Marlene Captures Close; Favored for Open Title

From B.U.P. and C.P. Dispatches

EDMONTON, Alta., Aug. 11. — Marlene Stewart, 18-year-old, Fonthill, Ont., whiz of the fairways, was favored today to carry home the 39th Canadian Women's Open golf title.

Play in the qualifying 18 holes of the annual classic gets under way at the Mayfair Golf and Country Club.

The competition, sponsored by the Canadian Ladies' Golf Union, will wind up with a 36-hole final Saturday.

Miss Stewart, defending champion, showed she had lost none of her sparkle when she won the Canadian Women's Close tourney for the second straight year here last week. She will be up against tougher competition in this week's event — notably Grace Lenczyk of the United States who won the Open in 1947 and 1948.

Miss Stewart was to tee off in today's qualifying round with Babs Davies of British Columbia and Mrs. Graham Pyke of Quebec.

Miss Stewart blistered the Edmonton course Saturday to retain her Canadian women's close golf championship with a 54-hole better than the old record of 241, set in 1949 when the tournament switched from match to medal play.

Marlene won the crown last year at Laval-Sur-Le-Quebec, where this year's victory made her the second person ever to cop it twice in a row. Ada Mackenzie of Toronto accomplished the feat twice.

The young champion's 72-79-299 pace over the par 79 Mayfair gave her a 15-stroke margin over second-place Ontario champion Mary Gay of Kitchener, who fell apart Saturday and came in with 77-76-91-244.

Rae Milligan of Jasper, 18-year-old Alberta champion, made the top three a junior show when she followed the 20-year-old Miss Gay with 86-82-80-248.

Third place changed hands regularly. Babs Davies of Vancouver Marine Drive, whose record Marlene broke, held third Thursday but finished fourth after rounds of 82-87-85-254. Behind her at 257 were Mrs. J. C. Whiteall of Laval-Sur-Le-Lac, Mrs. Graeme Pyke of Montreal, Mrs. J. H. Todd of Victoria and Miss Mackenzie.

LOW JUNIOR
Another junior — 18-year-old Dorothy Herbertson of Esquimalt, B.C. — was next with 258. Her score was low amongst the six entered as juniors.

Shirley Fry had 94-86-88-268.

MEET LADYSMITH NEXT

Tillicums Capture Lower Island Title

Showing their domination of both foreign and home parks, Tillicums won the lower Island senior B softball championship this week-end by beating Mesachie Lake in the best-of-three final.

Next week-end they meet the dangerous Ladysmith club in a series for the island championship.

Senior B League city playoffs start tonight with Tillicums meeting Forest Products and Army tangling with Timkeners. Both games are at Macdonald Park at 6:30.

Saturday at Duncan, Tillicums blew a 9-0 lead but held on to take a 15-14 victory in a wild slugfest. The clubs came back to Victoria for the rest of the series and Tillicums ended the set by copping an 8-1 victory.

Jack Elliott was the hero of the second game. Used most of the season as a relief pitcher, Elliott went the distance to turn in his best game of the season and smashed two home runs.

Tillicums were presented with the Hudson Bay Trophy at the conclusion of the second game.

POPHAM, RANSON PLAY FOR BOXLA BAYS TONIGHT

Foul Bay has been bolstered by the addition of two former members of the Shamrocks for tonight's Senior B Lacrosse League playoff game with Nanaimo Jets at Memorial Arena.

Ed Popham, winner of the Ed Bayley Memorial award in 1950 as the outstanding rookie in the Intercity League, and Jim Ranson, will strip for the city team. Both worked out with Foul Bay last week.

Nanaimo defeated Jimmy Little's Jokers in a semi-final playoff.

Tonight's game, which starts at 8.15, will be preceded by a junior contest between Jokers and Foul Bay at 7.15.

B.C. NET MEET ENDS

Singles Title To DeWitts

By CHRIS BOTHWELL

Jerry DeWitts of Oakland, Calif., garnered the men's singles tennis laurels in the final of the 55th B.C. lawn tennis championships Saturday afternoon at the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club.

Top-seeded DeWitts captured the men's singles championship by trouncing second-seeded Fred Fisher of Seattle, Wash., in straight sets, 7-5, 6-2, 6-0.

At the outset Fisher matched DeWitts' pace, winning his service consistently to find all in the first set. But after DeWitts broke his service and clinched the initial set, Fisher faltered and was forced into making costly errors by the gazelle-like DeWitts, whose volleys and passing shots were superior.

In a short-lived ladies' singles final, Marjorie McCord of Berkeley, who was seeded fourth, scored a minor upset when she copped the crown by triumphing over second-seeded Mrs. Muriel Kifer of Menlo Park, Calif., in straight sets, 6-1, 6-4. The hard-hitting Miss McCord stacked up as winner of timely cross-court placements which left Mrs. Kifer at the baseline.

Winners of the men's doubles final match were Conway Catton and Jim Demas of Alameda and Sacramento, Calif., respectively.

The second-seeded duo tripped up the top-seeded team of DeWitts and Jim Livingstone, San Francisco, by scores of 6-3, 4-6, 6-3, 8-6. A lengthy contest which featured grueling rallies saw the DeWitts-Livingstone combination snatch the initiative on several occasions, but their opponents' well-timed lobbing told the tale in the final stages.

Catton and Miss McCord became two-time victors when they joined forces in the mixed doubles to annex the championship with a 6-1, 8-6 triumph over Mrs. Kifer and Demas.

The top-seeded Miss McCord and Catton experienced little difficulty in overcoming the third-seeded Mrs. Kifer and Demas who could not handle Miss McCord's brilliant backhand returns and Catton's accurate passing shots.

The ladies' doubles diadem was captured by Miss Lois Reid, Vancouver, and Mrs. Elizabeth Locke from Mill Valley, Calif., making Miss Reid the only Canadian titleholder of the tournament. The starry duo, seeded second, nosed out Miss McCord and Mrs. Kifer, who were seeded No. 1, by scores of 3-6, 6-2, 7-5.

Americans dominated the junior veterans finals also. Californian John Cantrell snatched a decisive win at 6-1, 6-2, over Seattle's Lloyd Finney in the junior veterans' singles event. Cantrell then teamed up with J. Read to set down Finney and J. C. Hart at 6-4, 6-1 in the junior veterans' doubles.

Another California player, Don Miller, took the men's flights award from Victoria city champion, Warren Cameron, 1-6, 6-3, 6-1. Earlier in the day, Cameron eliminated fellow V.L.T.-er Ted Smythe in the semifinals round, 6-3, 5-7, 6-2.

Young Sheila Kingham of Victoria won the ladies' flights by defeating Maureen Bray, Vancouver, in straight sets, 9-7, 6-1. However, Sheila was beaten in the junior women's singles by clubmate Sally Pollard, 6-2, 6-0.

The promising Victoria junior, Cecil Brandson, added the junior boys' title to his Pacific Northwest Junior Centre laurels by setting down Don Thomson.

Three successive bases on balls, two doubles and a single enabled the Chiefs to score six runs before Jehosie Heard quelled the flame as the Chiefs went ahead 6-5.

Tyees bounced back for two runs in their half of the sixth to give Heard a 7-6 lead and a leg up on his 19th victory, but Jehosie couldn't hold the edge and took his eighth loss instead, the Chiefs scoring a singleton in the seventh and three in the eighth. Bill Prior finished up in the ninth and gave up the final run.

Bill Stites, who pitched a six-hitter for the Chiefs in the afternoon in losing to Gunnarson, got credit for the night triumph with a hitless chore over three and a third innings in relief.

Garriott sits out Manager Cec Garriott benched himself for the first time this season in favor of Dwane Helbig in the night game. He struck out as pinch hitter in the eighth.

Ben Lorino will seek to become Victoria's second 20-game winner in Western International League history tonight against the Caps. He has won 19.

Joe Blankenship was the first with 25 victories in the 1948 season.

Tri-City Braves defeated Spokane and Salem and Lewiston split a twin bill on Sunday's abbreviated Western International League schedule.

The Braves rapped Spokane 6-2 at Kennewick to drop the Indians 12 full games behind league-leading Victoria. Lewiston won the seven-inning opener at Salem, 5-4, but dropped the after-piece 4-3.

Other clubs were idle.

 COPENHAGEN, Aug. 11 (AP)—Ole Aberg of Sweden Sunday bettered the world track record for 1,000 metres when he was clocked in 2:21.3.

VANCOUVER NEWEST THREAT

Crucial Week Looms In Intercity League

NANAIMO, Aug. 11—Vancouver Lacrosse Club moved within striking distance of the Intercity Lacrosse League lead Saturday night with an 18-12 victory over the Native Sons.

The victory tied Vancouver with New Westminster Salmonacs, two points behind the front-running Victoria Shamrocks.

This week's schedule could play a vital part in the final disposition of the teams, Vancouver hosting New Westminster, Tuesday, and traveling to Victoria Wednesday.

On Thursday night the Salmonacs play host to Nanaimo while Shamrocks meet the fourth place North Shore Indians at Vancouver, Friday.

IRISH GAME IN HAND
 Indians, but four points out of first place, having played the same number of games as Vancouver and New Westminster, but one less than the Shamrocks, who have a game in hand on their three pursuers.

Two injuries marred the Vancouver victory over Nanaimo. Vancouver's Jim Anderson taken to hospital for examination following a hard check which caused his removal from the game, and Fred Fulla, Nanaimo goalkeeper, was also forced to retire to the dressing room as a result of a stiff body-check.

MARRIED EIGHT HOURS

Motorists Ignored Pleas For Aid for Dying Woman

VANCOUVER, B.C., Aug. 9 (BUP)—Frank Bebeau, 28-year-old Vancouver salesman whose 23-year-old bride of eight hours was killed in a traffic accident early Saturday, said Saturday night "several big cars" ignored his pleas for help after the tragedy.

His car went out of control and turned over three times on the Hope-Princeton highway near Hope, after he braked suddenly near the edge of a steep drop.

The grief-stricken bridegroom said, "Jean was thrown through the windshield, I think. She called my name and her mother's, but she never really regained consciousness."

"I'll never forget it. We were so happy and then this... I don't know what to do now."

He said several big cars went by without stopping as he held the girl in his arms, but no one helped until a man in a jalopy stopped. It broke down on the way to a doctor in Hope, who sent them to a hospital in Vancouver. The girl died there.

Bebeau was not hurt.

Hatcher Won't Be 'Bothered' By C.D. Critic

Greater Victoria civil defense co-ordinator, Leonard G. Hatcher, said Saturday he "failed to see how Arthur Bishop could have the slightest knowledge of the city's civil defense preparedness."

He was replying to a statement made to the Lions Club Friday by Arthur Bishop, Second World War A.R.P. head here, who said the local program which is costing $29,590 is "a lot of talk."

"I do not know the man. He has never come to see me to find out anything about the civil defense program," declared Mr. Hatcher.

The co-ordinator added he didn't want to be "bothered" with Mr. Bishop any more.

Mr. Bishop told the club luncheon meeting he recently stopped 50 people on the street and asked them what they would do if the air raid sirens sounded.

He claimed he only received one half-sensible answer, "and even that was incorrect."

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Problems of World Health Under Study

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

If a man falls ill of bubonic plague in India, it is just as important that he and his germs be not carried by airplane to New York as it is to prevent the spread of the disease in his native village.

A woman with diabetes in Egypt needs the same care and the same medicine as someone with diabetes in Los Angeles. A child stricken with pneumonia in Mexico should have the same prompt diagnosis and the same penicillin or other drugs that are available to another child similarly attacked in Chicago.

Practically no one would deny the desirability of making expert medical care available everywhere in the world, and in making it possible for anyone, who falls ill to receive whatever drugs or other treatment he most needs.

All this is an ideal and cannot be achieved overnight, but in the field of health, international co-operation has already been impressive. One of the organizations working in this field is the World Health Organization which has as its objective "the attainment by all peoples of the highest possible level of health."

STANDARD SET UP

It is not possible in the brief form of a column to cover the activities and functions of this international group of devoted workers, but they include watching and controlling the spread of epidemic diseases, the setting up of international standards for drugs, vaccines and food products, and the improvement of nutrition and environmental hygiene.

This organization is closely tied to the United Nations and is supported by the vast majority of the members of that organization.

Another group which aims to improve the health of the world is the World Medical Association, which is a private organization composed of the medical societies of a large number of nations. This second group is primarily interested in the standards of medical practice.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

The government has decided to cut me back from 42 to 39. This is a fine gesture, but unnecessary. I stopped when I reached 39, and there I intend to stay, indefinitely.

I trust you did not spend a sleepless week-end, deciding what to do with the $3-a-year reduction in your health insurance premiums.

A friend of mine listens to Don Wilson regularly on CKDA.

(He also takes cold baths, wears long underwear in summer, gives up smoking once a month, and sleeps on a bed of nails).

At any rate, this friend tells me that Wilson has been trying to build up his listening audience by mentioning Between Times on the air.

In a way, I sympathize with Wilson, and realize he must go to any lengths to get SOMEONE to listen to him. But I rather object to the use of Between Times as a sort of listeners' lure, like cash clues.

Let Wilson stick to the Reader's Digest, Joe Miller's Joke Book, and "two dollars for you if the news is new—who cares if it's true?"

It was a pleasant surprise to glance at page one of Friday's paper and read the headline "LORINO STILL WITH TYEES, BOSS STATES."

But it was disappointing to read the story, and find it was about the boss of the baseball team.

I thought for a minute that Boss Johnson was back in the news.

Capt. Joseph Tremblay, the new commander of the army squadron at Royal Roads, learned to fly the hard way.

As reported on Saturday, he crash-landed a plane with an unconscious pilot, after bringing it home from enemy territory on his first flight.

But, if you think his pals are properly respectful to this M.C. winner, you are mistaken.

They have christened him "Dead-stick Tremblay."

Penny Saver had something portentous to say about apricots on Friday.

She said "This delicious fruit is past its peak."

Never fear, dear apricot. Dimming eyes are simply a sign of advancing age. I suggest you consult a good optometrist.

You can always tell it is August, without looking at the calendar.

August is the month when overheated males bewail their costumes, and demand dress reform.

I am all in favor of dress reform. I think, for instance, that the long, clinging trouser leg is an abomination in hot weather.

I think men should wear shorts.

But there is one big drawback, one obstacle which dress reform will never overcome.

Men's legs ain't pretty.

KEEN EYE CAST ON CITY KITCHENS, CALLS CAFE COOKS OKAY

David Smith, he's tester, not taster.

By AILEEN CAMPBELL

He regularly inspects the kitchens of 160 public eating places in Victoria and Esquimalt, and still enjoys a restaurant meal.

David Smith, city sanitary inspector, says the public need have no fear of local eating houses.

"In the main, the picture is good," he states.

With his swabs, temperature thermometers, flashlights and a host of other items in a little black kit, Mr. Smith is the public's guardian. His job is to see that the city's eating places are up to sanitary and health standards required by provincial and municipal law.

Since he came on the job in 1948, six eating places have been closed and considerably more have gone out of business.

Owners felt business did not warrant cost involved in putting in new equipment and making structural and other changes necessary to meet the city standards, Mr. Smith said.

"Safe food service" is his motto.

In 1939 the city passed a by-law, which was the first to give inspectors some control of restaurants, Mr. Smith said.

In 1947, the provincial government passed the Eating and Drinking Establishments regulations which apply to all B.C. That code is the inspector's guide book.

A year-long program, during which a "complete clinic" was conducted for each restaurant, cafe, coffee shop, institutional and staff kitchen was completed last fall.

Since then it has been a matter of continual spot checking.

Mr. Smith checks dishwashing equipment and methods; cross-checks results with bacteriological examination of utensils; checks temperatures in all refrigeration equipment; food temperatures in the steam table; methods of handling ice cream and milk.

"You never keep food warm—must be either hot or cold," he says. "In handling milk or coffee cream, the more direct the delivery the better."

Most proprietors, according to the inspector, are interested in operating a "high-class establishment" from the standpoint of sanitation.

"A lot of criticism of restaurants is entirely unfair," he said.

Contrary to some popular belief, he added, restaurant operators as a group, are not trying to poison humanity en masse.

Mr. Smith referred to economic factors involved and said his department tried to keep standards up without putting too much financial strain on the industry itself.

Frequently new equipment required and structural changes are so costly they cannot be purchased or made all at once, he said.

"Anyone can build a perfect restaurant from scratch—the problem is to try to adapt existing places," according to Mr. Smith. "Major difficulty is that few restaurants are located in buildings meant to house them. This poses structural problems expensive to overcome."

While the public may occasionally get a cracked cup or a cup with lipstick on it," Mr. Smith felt instances were not frequent. He said accidents happen in any industry — "they do at home."

The general public still has a tendency to abuse washrooms and other equipment, the inspector states.

"I've seen many instances where initials have been carved in brand new booths and lovely counter tops..."

H.M.S. Sheffield Personnel Given Hearty Welcome by Victoria People

An estimated 7,500 Victorians thrilled to the colorful precision drill of sailors and marines of H.M.S. Sheffield Sunday evening, in a flood-lit sunset ceremony in front of the Legislative Building.

The ship's band of 25 Royal Marines, in gleaming white helmets and webbing, marched and counter-marched with 50 ratings in the tattoo and retreat, before one of the largest crowds ever assembled here.

It was a fitting climax to a

BLOOD BANK DONATIONS AT NADEN 'EXCELLENT'

Response at a Red Cross blood transfusion clinic today at H.M.C.S. Naden was "excellent," said Mrs. V. A. Thistle, secretary of the service.

The clinic will continue at the Naval Barracks Tuesday, and will be at Red Cross House, Fort Street, on Wednesday and Thursday from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m., and 7 to 9:30 p.m.

Mrs. Thistle was in favor of any plan which would increase the blood bank, such as having blood given to patients being replaced by the patients' friends.

"That's what we want," she said. "It would help to bring our stocks up."

ARROWSMITH VIGIL

Times Man Spends Night On Mountain

David Stock, a Times reporter, is safe after being lost in the Mount Arrowsmith country overnight Sunday.

He walked out of the bush early today with one of the men who went to hunt for him, Ralph Rosseau, Alberni teacher and alpinist, at 4 a.m.

Police and dogs, waiting for daylight, to start an organized search early today, called off the hunt when Stock and his companion reported to the Forestry Department station at Qualicum at 6:30 a.m.

Humphrey Davy, another Times newsmen, and Graham Harris, Canadian Press representative in Victoria, were the other members of Stock's party who climbed Mount Arrowsmith Sunday. They somehow missed Stock on the down trail.

Davy telephoned his paper early today to report that his colleague was safe, however.

According to Davy, he and

Harris were ahead of Stock on the down trail. Stock missed a turn and was confronted by a 1,000-foot cliff, which he descended. But he found the going at the bottom tougher than it had been at the top. It was swamp country. So he climbed the cliff again.

By this time it was 9 p.m. and getting dark.

Rosseau, the Alberni alpinist, heard Stock's shouts, it seems, and led him to a cabin where they spent most of the night.

They realized the others in the party would be worried and set off on the down trail at 4 a.m.

Meanwhile, Ulf Bettelheim, 22, a former European climber, had started back to look for Stock.

He had been with Davy and Harris earlier. He met Rosseau and Stock on the trail.

"We thought Stock was ahead of us," Davy explained. "Somehow he missed the trail. That's how it happened."

'SUNNY AND WARM' WITH COOLING WIND FORECAST

"Sunny and warm" is the forecast for Tuesday, Victoria weatherman William Mackie said today.

A cooling wind will keep temperatures to a comfortable maximum of 65 degrees, and will reach from 20 to 30 miles per hour Tuesday afternoon.

A weak disturbance forming over the Alaskan Panhandle is expected to bring increasing cloudiness Tuesday evening, he said.

Chinchillas Entertain Group Of Visitors at Saanich Home

Not many people ever get closer to a chinchilla wrap than the other side of a shop window. But several hundred got a close-up of the chinchilla wrap on its original owners Saturday.

They were greeted at the Nomavi chinchilla farm, West Saanich Road, by partners, Victor Nunn and Harry Dawson and their wives.

The chairman of the National Chinchilla Breeders' Association,

A.C. Withers, with Mrs. Withers, was one of the guests who came to see this ultra-modern fur farm. And there were other big breeders from Vancouver Island and B.C. farms.

There was an overflow crowd of more than 200 in the afternoon and as many more during the evening. Although the reception was officially finished, people who called on Sunday got a quick look around.

The chinchillas didn't mind.

700 Fighting 145 B.C. Fires

More than 700 men today are battling 145 forest fires in British Columbia and the province entered its 19th day without appreciable rain.

Continued hot weather is the forecast, the B.C. Forest Service reported.

In the Vancouver Forest District, which includes Vancouver Island, there were 12 new fires over the week-end, bringing the total to 26.

A fire at the south end of Butte Lake has not been controlled mainly because it is practically inaccessible.

Another blaze at the south end of Comox Lake also is out of control.

Officials had no details on these two Island blazes.

Curlers Turn Rink's First Sod Here Today

Max Zabel, president of Victoria Curling Club, was scheduled to turn the first sod for the proposed new curling rink on Quadra Street this afternoon.

Acting-Mayor Frank Mulliner, aldermen and officials of the curling club were to be on hand for the ceremony. Plans call for an eight-sheet rink.

D.E. Launching Aug. 19

Hull of the first destroyer escort to be built on this coast under the Royal Canadian Navy's expansion program will go down the ways at Burrard Drydock in Vancouver August 19. A second D.E. will be launched this fall, and the hull towed to Victoria for finishing at Yarrows Ltd.

RATES MAY SOAR

Sale of Water Drops Sharply

City of Victoria's conservation of water will save it some $30,000 this year but it may boomerang on the taxpayer in increased water rates.

Revenue from sale of water by the Greater Victoria Water District has taken a sharp drop all-round, Ron Upward, chief commissioner, said today.

The water board can either boost the rate from 8 to 8½ cents per 1,000 gallons or make up the loss by forest operations profits, Mr. Upward said.

The matter will be discussed at the board meeting next Monday.

As an economy move the city cut out boulevard sprinkling during the hot summer months and also a major part of its sewer flushing.

Added to this drop in the water board's revenue is the effect of mill closures, owing to the strike. Mills normally account for a sizeable share of water sales, Mr. Upward said.

"The city cut its consumption this year by about 1,000,000 gallons a day."

For the month of July 71,000,000 less gallons of water were sold throughout the district than in July of last year.

Total consumption this July was 672,000,000 gallons. Last July it was 743,000,000.

City and Esquimalt this July consumed 336,000,000 compared with last July's 397,000,000; Saanich, 130,000,000 gallons compared with last year's 144,000,000; Oak Bay, 92,000,000, compared with 96,000,000.

Rather than raise water rates in 1951, the board applied profits from its forestry operations to maintain the existing rates.

The 8½ cents per 1,000 rate was cut to 8 early this year by the water board. It can maintain that rate if it chooses to use profit from this year's forestry operations, Mr. Upward said.

18-YEAR-OLD PAYS $5 FOR HORN TOOT

Blowing a car horn to attract the attention of a friend cost an 18-year-old motorist a $5 fine in police court today.

Donald N. Erickson, 333 Kerr, pleaded guilty to a charge of making an unnecessary noise by blowing the horn on his car.

Court was told he explained to a police officer who stopped him that "he just did it because he saw his friend."

Ship Officers Get Award for Weather Aid

Eleven officers of Canadian merchant ships on the Pacific coast are to be recognized for their contribution to weather information services.

"The merchant ship men, who radio vital information to the meteorological station at Sea Island every six hours, will receive copies of a book by Rachel Carson entitled 'The Sea Around Us'."

The Canadian merchant marine is part of a 2,000-ship, international marine weather service which contributes to weather forecasts and warnings of approaching storms.

HENLESS HOME LOCATED FOR CHICKEN HOUND

A pooch named Garvie, described in the Times Saturday as a somewhat homeless little fellow, is all settled with a new family.

Mrs. Robert Maggs, wife of the Victoria S.P.C.A. inspector and temporary host to the 14-month-old mongrel, said at least 20 people called the S.P.C.A. Saturday after reading the plea in the Times.

"I raise the dickens with chickens," Garvie revealed.

"That's why my former owners left me with the S.P.C.A. There are no chickens at my new home so I suppose I'll be a good pup."

Closed Forests Lift Register Of Unemployed

Vancouver district and Vancouver Island forest closure, which has sent many logging workers to register for jobs, has brought the National Employment Office list of unemployed applicants to the high total for the year first reached five weeks ago.

The majority of vacancies for men have been filled readily, and at the same time the number of hard-to-fill jobs has been sharply reduced.

There are still vacancies for mechanical draughtsmen, roofing and insulation, household equipment and life insurance salesmen, and young sales clerks for men's stores.

The steady demand for stenographers, cooks and domestic workers still continues in the women's section, officials report. Orders from other officers indicate a wide selection of jobs open across Canada to applicants with the necessary qualifications.

Homes Burgled, Cars Looted by Week-End Culprits

Cash, a car radio, a watch and other items were reported stolen in five separate thefts here over the week-end.

George Dance, 22 Wellington, told police his home was broken into late Sunday night while he and his wife were absent and $34 and a flashlight were stolen. Entry was gained by smashing a pane of glass in the door near the lock.

Robert Bugg of Pitzer and Nex service station told police a radio was taken from his car while it was parked on a lot.

A generator and fan were taken from a car owned by S. S. Barker, Montrose Apartments, Blanshard Street, while it was parked on a Johnson Street lot. Charles Delahay, Beverly Hotel, reported the theft of $1 and a wrist watch from his room early Sunday.

Theft of his driver's license, car registration slip, a towel and a bathing suit from his car parked at Thetis Lake was reported by Kenneth Cunningham, H.M.C.S. Ontario.

Palsy Club Plans Temporary Clinic

Location of quarters for a temporary clinic will be discussed at a meeting of the Cerebral Palsy Parents' Club in Knights of Pythias Hall, Cormorant Street, tonight at 8.

Accommodation is needed by the cerebral palsy committee of the Knights of Pythias to take first steps toward establishment of a permanent clinic for treatment of youthful victims of cerebral palsy in Victoria.

A central location and no steps are requirements for the clinic. There must be room for special equipment such as climbing bars and walking sticks to enable children to master locomotion.

The meeting is open to all interested persons.

Sandy Beach Fans Barred From Haunts

One of Victoria's favorite swimming and sunning haunts—Sandy Beach, off the Malahat side of the Island Highway—has been closed to the public this year.

Much used by the general public for the past 15 years, its loss has been keenly felt.

"I can see no reason for closing it," said John Anderson, 3130 Glasgow Avenue today.

"It was all logged off two years ago so I can't see a fire hazard angle."

An old road allowance and the property itself is believed owned by the B.C. Cement Co. A gate leading onto the property, and from there to the beach was closed this spring, Mr. Anderson said.

Every Sunday in the summers saw 200 to 300 people flocking out to the beach, according to one source.

"The only way you can get to it now is by boat," said Mr. Anderson. "It is the only decent beach on the Saanich Arm."

Up to press time, no official of the B.C. Cement Co. could be contacted for comment.

Cars Heavily Damaged In Saturday Accident

One driver received a minor cut and two cars were damaged extensively in a collision Saturday afternoon at Collinson and Blanshard.

Injured was Martin C. Smith, Island Tug and Barge. The second driver, Kathleen M. Paulin, 949 Pembroke, escaped injury.

76 B.C. Polio Cases Reported for Year

To date this year there have been 76 polio cases and eight deaths in B.C. compared to 118 cases and nine deaths at the same time in 1947, the provincial health department reports today.

In 1951, there were only 24 cases and two deaths at this time of the year.

Officials said only 17 of the 76 cases reported this year showed paralysis. Not all of them will be permanent paralysis.

The majority of persons stricken have been children.

Whopper of a Bargain
Just About Floored Me

By PENNY SAVER

I've really been hitting it lucky lately. There seems to be no end to the number of bargains to be found in town. They get bigger and better all the time!

This latest bargain nearly floored me. Sit your little self down and read this.

At a special-special price are nine-piece sets of stainless steel copper-bottom wear. Are you still seated? Good, because here is the price... $27.65!

Can you imagine it? Why, that is about half the regular price. And don't think that because this wear is selling at such a low price that it isn't the best quality wear. It is!

If you have recovered from the shock we'll go on to the next part of the story.

Here is what you get in the set for $27.65—a kettle, a double boiler, a saucepan about eight inches in diameter with a lid, and two fryers with straight sides and lids. One fryer is about eight inches in diameter and the other about 12.

Housewives, of course, will jump at this opportunity, but it should not be limited to them alone. It would be a wise investment for any young girl who has started her housework.

Do you know what 49 pennies will buy? You don't! Well then I'll have to tell you.

For exactly 49 pennies you can buy a spool of metallic sewing thread which is tarnish resistant.

The metallic thread comes in silver and gold. Wow! It would add a sparkling touch to numerous ensembles.

Girl in 30's Should
Search Out Right Man

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

When a woman reaches the thirties without having found a husband, she is likely to be bitter and disillusioned. This makes it hard for her to attract men later or to adjust satisfactorily to marriage, should she marry. This young woman has acquired a bitter outlook on men:

(Q.) "I'm sure there are quite a few women in their thirties who are in the same position as I am. I have decided that all unmarried men over 30 are going to stay unmarried. I haven't given up hope of finding one exception. But the ones I have met think they are doing a girl a favor by dating her and then expect her to show her gratitude by sharing a hotel room with them. I have had it happen so often in the past year that I prefer to stay home. I am tired of having men tell me what terrific lovers they are and how they can help me make up for all I have missed up to now."

(A.) Your letter is cynical and shows that you have had some pretty bad experiences with the wrong kind of men. But don't allow your attitude to become so poisoned against all men that when you do find a good one, you will scare him away.

Men in the thirties who have never married are just as likely to marry as men in the twenties, when they find the right woman. But their more mature experience is likely to make them more choosy. In other words, it is harder to snare them than it is when they are younger.

As for sex, many men have learned from experience that unmarried women in the thirties are sometimes willing to pay any price for dates. They then try out all women to see if they belong to that class. If you keep your standards high you may lose some of them but you are likely to win the admiration of others.

A young woman of your age must work harder to get a husband than a younger one because the available male supply begins to dwindle rapidly after men reach 30. This does not mean that you must chase men or be willing to give in. But it does mean that you must go out for what you want, subtly, and not wait.

If you have a personal problem, write Elizabeth Hurlock in care of this newspaper.

BRUNETTE
OPERATOR

CALGARY (CP)—The boys in the composing room of the Calgary Albertan were wide-eyed with astonishment when they reported for work one day to find a pretty, 23-year-old brunette seated at the keyboard of a one-ton linotype machine.

This invasion into a domain the threshold of which few women ever crossed was the work of Colleen Bowd, formerly of Saskatoon, who foresook a nursing career because she is more interested in feeding presses than patients.

After the initial incongruity wore off, the Albertan printers accepted Miss Bowd as "one of the gang."

Made Husband Happy
With Marathon Results

Here comes the good news! At this time each year I print a few letters giving marathon results. You may remember that I ran my eight-week self-improvement marathon last January. I do this in order to encourage some of you who may still be carrying those extra pounds and bulges around.

Here is a letter from one marathon entrant:
"Dear Josephine Lowman:
"I have completed your eight-week self-improvement marathon and I am completely excited and happy with the results. I followed it to the letter as you directed. Here are my starting measurements and measurements today."

Down 22 Pounds
Before After
Weight 138 pounds—116 pounds
Waist 26 inches—24 inches
Hips 37 inches—35½ inches
Upper arm 11 inches—10 inches
Calf 14 inches—13 inches

"I might add that I feel better physically and mentally as well as look much better in my clothes. My husband is most happy about the whole thing. "I would like some firming exercises for my hips and upper legs. They have lost their bulges but are still too flabby. I would like these soon because I am leaving on my vacation and would like to continue work on firming my thighs."

"Thank you—"
This reader did not give her bust measurement so I judge this was as she wished it to be.

This letter today indicates how exciting self-improvement can be and that once you stick with a program long enough to see the happy results, you are apt to continue even further toward perfection.

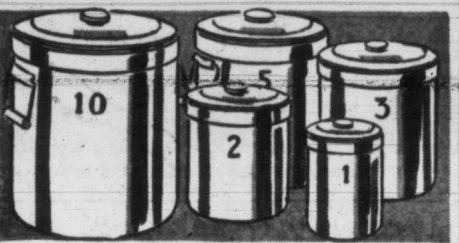

The following exercise is firming to the thighs. Do deep knee bends. Be certain to keep your back straight as you bend your knees all the way down. If you cannot keep your balance with a straight back, place one hand on the wall or on the back of a chair for support.

For hip firming do this: Stand with your right side toward the wall and place your right hand on the wall. Swing the right leg back as far as you can. Bring it forward to starting position. Later on turn your left side to

Couple Wed in Christ Church Cathedral Saturday Evening

A wedding of interest in both Sidney and Victoria took place Saturday evening in Christ Church Cathedral against a summer backdrop of coral and white gladioli. Rev. Van Der West sol- emnized the vows of Hazel Eliza- beth Hawkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hawkins, William Head Quarantine Station, and Graham Arthur Drew, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Drew, Mills Road, Sidney.

Tiny colonial bouquets of coral and white sweet peas marked the guest pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown styled with bouffant nylon net skirt and inset lace panels, which cascaded into a full train at back. The bodice of chantilly lace over satin culminated in an off-the- shoulder neckline and wrist- length sleeves. A veil of illusion net, held snugly by a cloche hat, cascaded to floor-length in soft folds. Her only jewelry was a necklace of seed pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of gar- denias.

Mrs. Cave Bell, Buffalo, N.Y., sister of the bride, chose a ball- erina dress of champagne sheer lace over coral satin, with matching satin slippers and champagne picture hat. Her crescent bouquet was of coral gladioli.

Miss Sharon Bell, niece of the bride, wore an aqua marine em- broidered organza dress with matching embroidered Dutch cap. Her outfit was completed with a colonial bouquet of coral sweet peas.

Best man was Herbert Drew, brother of the groom, and ushers, Clyde Banfield and Stuart Ham- ilton.

Olde England Inn was the set- ting for the reception. The bridal table was centred with a three- tier wedding cake, topped with sweetheart roses. H. D. Parizeau proposed the toast.

Visitor to City Has Led Active Life; Interested in Youth Groups

By DAWN VAN NORMAN

Mrs. William Francis Carey, who is visiting her cousin, Mrs. H. J. Terry, Humber Road, feels greatly privileged to have led a colorful and active life which in- cluded nearly 40 years of happy marriage.

Indio, Calif., is now her home but she lived in New York for 35 years.

In New York she was ex- tremely active in organizations to help the youth of America, her main interest being the Youth Builders. She was chairman of the executive committee of this board for 12 years.

"I found the work particularly to my liking as it developed an understanding and appreciation of the building of America and of the country itself, in the young people," she explained.

The visitor-joined the Youth Builders group in 1933 following a trip to Russia, Poland and Germany with her son, William Francis Jr., where she viewed with interest and horror the Com- munist training.

She tells you, "I found that parts of their training was char- acter building, but I realized the domineering overall influence would affect the whole world. I returned to America determined to do something to keep our youths free of this influence."

STARTS PANAMA SCHOOL

Mrs. Carey, well known for his work in building 400 miles of the Canadian National Railway and for being in charge of excavations for the Panama Canal, passed away more than a year ago.

As wife of this active man, Mrs. Carey found that a great many years of her marriage were spent in the camps on the sites of the various projects.

When asked if she didn't prefer to stay in a large city near at hand, she replied, "Certainly not. I was brought up to believe that a wife's place is beside her husband. And there I stayed. I knew what my life would be like before I married so I had nothing to complain about."

While in Panama she organized and taught the first school for American children. "Once I taught at Nebraska State Normal. A school was needed, I had spare time, so I could hardly refuse such an opportunity."

At other camps during this

Mrs. W. F. Francis has discovered that her friends are able to find her and strangers remember her more easily by her unusual Christian name, Ocean. Her parents called her after the daughter of their good friends, a Methodist minister and his wife, who was born at sea when they were heading for New York during the gold rush days.

phase of her husband's career. Mrs. Carey organized day and Sunday schools for the children, and church for adults.

It was just this year that Mrs. Carey was awarded a citation from the Emerson School of Speech in Boston as being the outstanding member of 1903 grad- uating class.

The whirl of activities did not come to an end when she moved from New York.

When Mrs. Carey returns to Indio in the fall after visiting friends in San Francisco she plans to take part in the Sorop- tist Club and to spend a lot of time working for the P.T.A., which is fighting drug addiction. "If it's work to help young people, I'm only too eager to do my best," she emphasized.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Her- bert-Stepney are honeymooning in Washington following their marriage Saturday afternoon in Church of St. George the Martyr, Cadboro Bay.

Rev. W. Hills officiated for the former Pauline "Vicky" Moffatt, daughter of late Mr. and Mrs. George A. Gardiner, and the sons of Mrs. A. Herbert-Stepney, Mc-Clure Street, and late Mr. Her- bert-Stepney.

The bride wore a powder blue silk faille suit with navy and pink velvet hat and pink accessories. Her corsage was gladioli and carnations to match pink trim on hat.

A small reception for the fam- ily was held at the home of Mrs. E. D. Jones. R. W. Taylor pro- posed the toast.

Sidney Cubs Form Guard of Honor At the Painter-Baillie Wedding

As Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ar- thur Painter left St. Andrew's Church, Sidney, Saturday evening following the service con- ducted by Rev. R. Melville which united them in marriage, a guard of honor was formed by members of the first Sidney B Cub pack.

Mrs. Painter is the former Diane Agnes Baillie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Baillie, Queens Avenue, Sidney, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Painter, Pine Street, Victo- ria.

Pink and white gladioli and ivy in tall baskets were placed in the church and guest pews were marked with gypsophila. During the signing of the register, Vera Charlesworth sang "O Perfect Love," accompanied by B. Bruce.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina-length gown of white organza with fitted bodice softly shirred into scallops, over a slip of whis- pering taffeta. A cloche of white flowers, lace gloves and a cascade bouquet of white gardenias and swainsona completed her en- semble.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Joane Painter and the bridal attendants Miss Pat Nash and Mrs. Lucy Casswell, wore gowns styled identically to the bride's. The ma- tron of honor in pink, Miss Nash in mauve and Miss Casswell in blue with matching picture hats and velvet ribbon sashes. They carried baskets of matching glad- ioli and summer flowers.

Marilyn Whitehead was flower girl in a short green frilled or- gandy dress with matching bon- net. She carried a basket of sweet peas and carnations.

Howard Painter, brother of the groom, was best man and Frank Casswell and Ken Nuttall were ushers.

At the reception in the K. of P. Hall, the bride's table was cen- tred with a three-tier cake topped with a silver vase of sweet peas. The lace-covered table was also decorated with silver candelabra and vases of mauve sweet peas. T. Lidgate proposed the toast.

The honeymoon will be spent motorizing through British Colum- bia to Banff and returning via the United States.

For traveling the bride wore a blue-grey pic and pic suit with black accessories, black velvet hat and red cobra pumps. Her corsage was a white orchid.

Realized $2,340

At the recent garden fête staged by St. Luke's Church at "Strangewood," the Gordon Head home of Mrs. S. L. McMullen, $2,340 was realized towards a building debt of $7,000.

A variety of gaily decorated stalls dotted the lawn. Tea was also served in this setting. Dean Phillip Beattie, Christ Church Cathedral, opened the affair.

Pupils of Florence Clough's school of dancing entertained, also Ernest Crockford, magician.

Madeline Marks Wed In St. John's Church

At a double-ring ceremony Saturday evening at St. John's Church, the Rev. Canon George Biddle solemnized the marriage of Madeline Emily, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Marks, 18 Boyd Street, and Wil- liam Wilson Crossman, only son of Mrs. Margaret Crossman, 2611 Asquith Street. Miss Joyce Richardson played the organ interludes.

Escorted by her brother, Mr. Albert Marks who gave her away, the bride was lovely in a ballerina length gown of white satin overlaid with white nylon net styled with fitted bodice featuring tiny tucks in the front, and full three-quarter sleeves. Her chapel veil of illusion net, with wide lace edge, was caught by a satin coronet embroidered with pearls and outlined with silver beads. She carried a cre- scent bouquet of gardenias and feathered white carnations.

The bride's sister, Mrs. J. Mur- ray, the former Roseline Marks, was matron of honor, in yellow embossed net over mauve taffeta with scalloped neck and three-quarter length sleeves. Bridesmaids Miss Audrey Cross- man, sister of the groom, and Miss Solange Peltier of Port- land, were gowned in similarly styled frocks of net over taffeta, in yellow and green re- spectively. All wore bandeaux of fresh flowers in their hair corresponding with the blooms in their colonial bouquets, and net mitts.

Mr. John Pickburn was best man and ushers were Mr. Jack Eaton and Mr. Lorne McCon- erty.

The reception was held in the Business and Professional Women's clubrooms, where Mrs. Marks and Mrs. Crossman wel- comed guests with the young couple. The table, covered with a tatted lace cloth, and de- corated with pink carnations and Esther Reid daisies, was centred with the three-tiered cake. Mr. Jesse Smithson proposed the toast to his niece.

Driving to San Francisco for their honeymoon, the bride wore a tomato-red gabardine suit with ballerina skirt and short jacket, petticoat of plaid taffeta, winter- white topcoat, complemented by navy blue accessories and a cor- sage of gardenias and white carnations.

Famous British Girls' Choir Hostesses to B.C. Visitors

BY KITTY DIXON

Members of the well-known Luton Girls' Choir were hostesses to boys and girls of B.C.'s Elgar Choir during our two-day stay in the borough of Luton.

As we were not giving a concert upon the night of our arrival, many of us were taken to a rehearsal of the Luton Choir. Arthur Davies, conductor of the choir, introduced himself and welcomed us.

The following day we attended a Rotary luncheon at which our conductor, Mr. Findlater, was guest speaker.

Instead of making the Elgar Choir his topic, he gave a brief outline on the history of British Columbia, then introduced a member of the choir from each B.C. town represented.

Each representative had 45 seconds in which to tell what her town was particularly noted for.

The weather was kind to us in the evening, when we gave an outdoor concert in the colorfully lit bandstand at Wardown Park. The hospitality of Northampton was the warmest and friendliest yet. We were greeted at the Town Hall by the mayor and mayors, who had arranged a tour of the city and a visit to the fire hall for us.

Before giving our concert that evening we were taken for dinner to the attractive Wedgwood restaurant, the walls of which are decorated in a delicate blue and white Wedgwood design.

The evening's entertainment consisted of games and square dancing, which has become popular in England since the Queen and Duke of Edinburgh learned it in Canada.

The next day we were taken on a tour of the Northampton Agricultural College and gave a sacred recital at Mt. Pleasant Church that evening.

After one night stops in Yardley, Hastings and Derby, we moved on to Sheffield.

It was at Sheffield that we broke up for our holiday. Each chorister will spend a week of relaxation with British relatives or friends, meeting again at Glasgow, where we will resume our tour.

BEAUTY CONTEST
CAMPBELL RIVER—A beauty contest for girls between the ages of 17 and 22 for title of "Miss Campbell River" will highlight the annual salmon derby staged Aug. 15 by the Canadian Legion Branch No. 137 of Campbell River and district. Gala ceremonies will wind-up the two-day derby Aug. 17. Beauty contest winner will be entered in the "Miss P.N.E." contest in Vancouver.

Best Babies Win Honors

She's the best in the west—Victoria West, that is. Linda Baker won the title at the annual baby show and fair sponsored by Victoria West Community Centre at Banfield Park Saturday. Linda is held by her mother, Mrs. R. W. Baker, 94 Linden Avenue. The young man with the small smile is Ross Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thompson, 802 Catherine Street, winner in the eight-month and under class. He is perched on the arm of former alderman Charlie Banfield.

HAPPY LITTLE SCOTTISH LADY

74 Land, Sea and Sky-Scapes In Interesting One-Man Show

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON
A soft-spoken little Scottish lady, who, through happy years of travel, has gained an intimate knowledge of many parts of the world, has recorded not only what she has seen, but the mood in which she has seen it.

A part of that record, in water color and oil, is shown to Victoria art lovers for the first time this week on the walls of the Moss Street Arts Centre. The exhibition marks the opening of the small upstairs gallery which is to be devoted particularly to one-man artist shows.

Mrs. Margaret C. Thompson has lived in Victoria just four years and says that local scenery has excited her brush every bit as much as did Capri or the Adirondacks. Only, now she has no car and it is not so easy to reach all the beauty spots she would like to paint.

Mrs. Thompson, now a widow, gratefully recalls the long, annual vacations spent with her husband who was a professor at McGill University, an historian, art connoisseur and lecturer in art. Taking their car across the Atlantic, they traveled all over southern France and Italy, England, Scotland and Ireland; and at other times, explored the length and breadth of the United States and Canada.

The 74 paintings in the current show represent visits to Bermuda, California, the coast of Maine, Adirondacks, Colorado, the lower St. Lawrence, Scotland, France and Capri.

Mrs. Thompson was educated in Glasgow and studied music for many years, becoming a proficient pianist; but she never had any formal art training. She is principally self-taught but has benefited immensely from hints and suggestions picked up here and there.

BURIED FRIDAY
COURTENAY—A resident of Comox district for 18 years, Robert McPherson, 68, was buried in United Church Cemetery here Friday. He died Tuesday after a lengthy illness. Mr. McPherson, member of the Masonic Order since 1911, was born in Aberdeen, Scotland, and came to Canada in 1911.

PIONEER MUSEUM
The Peter Redpath museum of natural history was built at McGill University in 1882.

She remembers one occasion when she was painting on the beach at Monterey. Two gentlemen stood watching her for a while; finally, one of them came forward and offered some suggestions which she gratefully accepted. When he had gone, his friend told her that this was the famous New York artist, Haskell Coffin.

The only picture she ever submitted to the Royal Academy in London, was accepted by that exalted institution. Altogether she has had four one-man shows and two shows in collaboration with other artists. Before coming to Victoria from Montreal, she was vice-president of the Women's Art Society and a member of the Art Association of Montreal.

Her pictures, all land, sea and sky-scapes, are redolent with atmosphere and with the mood, both of the subject and the happily absorbed artist. Skies are an inspired part of most canvases and water color sketches. Mrs. Thompson has been particularly successful in capturing the endless activity, the sweeping patterns of the clouds and the movement and temper of the sea.

"A Coming Storm" is sullen and menacing, tones and textures vividly expressed in the inevitable affinity of sea and sky. "Lake in North of Scotland" has a rhythmic vigor, a crisp freshness; a study of the Grand Canyon suggests a hovering silence, an immensity of depth and distance. And there is a delightful French water color that has the vitality and freedom of one of those moments of brief, inspired execution.

Furniture Store Opens 'Laundry'

Now we're in the Laundry business. We never intended to go in for "Wet-Wash," but we have a fellow by the name of Harry Mitchell working for us, and he's always coming up with a hot idea. Harry is the type of guy who can always find a better way to do a thing, so he said the other day... "you know that new warehouse we have down the street where we store all those automatic washing machines... well, what's the matter with us hooking them up so we can show the customers how they work WITH WATER?" "Why... nuthin's the matter with that, Harry me lad," you go right ahead. "It's gonna be a whole lot easier to sell a 'Spin-Dry' if we can have the water squirting thru 'em," he continued, "and that new Westinghouse 'LAUNDRY-MAT' is R-E-A-L-L-Y gumthin'."

Harry went to work with hoses & couplings, and I've just come back from "The Laundry" (it's just around the corner) & so I'd like to tell you that if you'd like to bring a pile of washing down here, we'll spin 'er thru, altho it might not come out too clean, as he hasn't so far, figured out how to get HOT water. He's got the THOR "Auto-Magic" hooked up, as well as the Westinghouse "Laundrymat," so you can have a choice in case you want to buy one. "Golly Harry," I praised, "it ought to be a cinch to demonstrate one of these things now

... but just W-H-E-R-E does the water flow away when the pump starts to work?" He took me by the hand & said, "come with me." He led me into the... ah... er... "bathroom" around the corner, and sed "SEE," it drains thru that long hose into "that." I "crained" my neck, and said, "well... watcha know?... a straight flush." We went back, & he threw an old towel in the Westinghouse, turned the dial, and sed, "now stand here, and watch thru the glass how the whole cycle works." I was fascinated. First it washed... then it rinsed... then it rinsed again... then it spun dry, and finally the door flew open, out jumped the old towel... it hopped over and threw itself on the line. Q-H-A-E, ladies & gentlemen, is how we got in the Laundry Business... come, & walk thru our plant.

the air in Toronto "towards the end of August."

The B.B.C. is continuing its efforts to record as much British folk music as still exists following a prediction by experts in that country that it may be extinct in 10 years time.

Although folk music is probably drawing towards the end of its long and eventful life, says a B.B.C.
London Letter, there is still a great deal of it to be found in Britain.

Help in this task is being received from the Irish
Folklore Commission, the University of Edinburgh and other groups interested in field work of this kind.

With their aid, says the B.B.C., the Recorded Programs Library is amassing a very rich and varied collection of folk music which may be used in broadcast programs both for home and overseas listening and will also serve as a basis for study and research in years to come.

Radio times and programs are furnished by stations and networks and are subject to last minute changes. The Times assumes no responsibility for inaccurate listings.

This young lady with the tape measure seems a bit mystified at the plant beside her. And no wonder. It's a corn stalk growing very lustily out of a crack in the pavement on the corner of Washington and Jefferson Street near Chicago's busy Loop section.

Canada's Team Not Prepared

Bruce Humber, Back From Olympics, Would Make Canadians Competitors

By DENNY BOYD
Times Sports Writer

Bruce Humber, home from the 15th Olympiad at Helsinki, thinks Canada must decide whether she is a competitor or entered "just for the sake of sportsmanship" in the Olympic Games.

Victoria's Bruce, who coached Canada's track stars in Finland, arrived in Vancouver today.

"I'm proud of every member of our team," said Humber, "but under the present circumstances they simply were not prepared for the tremendous competition they ran into at Helsinki. It certainly was not their fault that Canada made the showing she did in point competition.

"First of all, we must decide right now whether we are going into the 1956 Olympics as a competitor, one which other nations will respect, or whether we are going to send a team just to have representation.

"Then we must start building. It is hopeless to wait until a few months before the games begin to whip a team into shape. We must start now and we must maintain interest in intervening years between Olympics.

"It is no secret that other major nations in the world have gone past Canada in track. The only way we can combat this is to follow the example of England and Finland.

"We must appoint a head coach for all of Canada and assistant coaches in each province to integrate a national track and field program. These coaches should be paid the year round."

Humber stated there was a dire need in Canada for more meets, greater track and field interest and more and better facilities.

He cited Finland as a model. "Finland has a population of 9,000,000 and they have 72,000 people who take an active part in track and field. It is their major sport and each tiny village has a track. In the entire Dominion we have no more than 5,000 people actively engaged in track work."

BOAT WRECKAGE IS IDENTIFIED

Flotsam Found in Nootka Sound Bears Name of Ngai Brothers' Halibut Vessel

Wreckage of a boat discovered near Zeballos was positively identified today as that of the "Jack Point," missing since June 8 with two Victoria brothers aboard.

R.C.M.P. said no trace has been found of Roy Ngai, 32, of 128 Superior, and his brother, George, 34, of 933 Caledonia. "They have been unreported since leaving Winter Harbor, north of Prince Rupert, bound for Victoria.

Wreckage was first sighted Saturday. The brothers had been away since the middle of May on a halibut fishing trip. A portion of the boat was found by searchers.

ANTHONY EDEN TO WED PRIME MINISTER'S NIECE

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP).—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden is shortly to marry Clarissa Spencer-Churchill, niece of Prime Minister Churchill, it was officially announced today.

The handsome, moustachioed Eden is 55. His fiancée, daughter of the late Maj. John Spencer-Churchill and the late Lady Gwendoline Spencer-Churchill, is 32.

The marriage should be a photogenic one. Before the war Eden was voted the most handsome man in the world by users of an American beauty parlor chain, while Miss Spencer-Churchill, blonde with blue eyes, was hailed in 1938 as the most beautiful debutante of the year.

The two have known each other some years. During the war, Miss Spencer-Churchill worked in the foreign office decoding telegrams.

Jordan King Removed In Favor of Young Son

Ailing King Talal Suffers Same Fate As Farouk; New Ruler at English School

AMMAN, Jordan, Aug. 11 (AP).—Parliament decided today to remove Ailing King Talal from his ancient Hashemite throne and turn the crown over to his son, Crown Prince Hussein.

Jordan radio promptly broadcast that 17-year-old Hussein was proclaimed king.

The move came little more than two weeks after Egypt ousted King Farouk as ruler and proclaimed his infant son, Fuad, as monarch.

Both houses of parliament had convened to hear reports about Talal's health. The government recommended that the monarch's brief reign be ended.

Talal has been reported mentally ill many months. The 41-year-old ruler recently underwent treatment in Switzerland for what has been reported as schizophrenia (split personality).

He was under similar treatment in Switzerland in July, 1951, when the assassination of his father, King Abdulah, brought him to the throne.

Hussein, now a student in England, has been described as a likeable youth, noted for his sharp wit.

His crowning will fulfill a dream of his grandfather, Abdulah. Although Abdulah and Talal quarreled frequently, Hussein was a favorite with the tempestuous old man.

Hussein was only 15 when Abdulah made him a captain in the Arab Legion and began taking the boy with him on public appearances.

The influence of his mother, Queen Zeine, has played a strong part in Hussein's career. Since Talal became ill, she had pinned her hopes in the boy's becoming king. At one time she urged Abdulah to make Hussein next in line for the throne, thereby passing Talal.
